THE CALENDAR

The calendar is a method of identifying the passage of time and thereby regulating our civil life and religious observances.

Days, months, and years are based on astronomical periods. The day is the time it takes the earth to make one revolution on its axis, the month is associated with the period of rotation of the moon around the earth, while the year has to do with the rotation of the earth around the sun.

Many religious ideas and observances have been connected with the changes of the moon, and in ancient times the calendar took account of the moon rather than the seasons. From new moon to new moon is 29.530 days, and from one spring equinox to the next is 365.24219 days. Since the two are incommensurable, the modern calendar disregards the moon.

THE JULIAN CALENDAR

When Julius Caesar came to power, the Roman Calendar was hopelessly confused. With the advice of the Alexandrian astronomer, Sosigenes, Julius Caesar established the Julian Calendar. The length of the year was taken as 365¼ days, and in order to account for the ¼ day, an extra day was added every fourth year. From 45 B.C. each month has had its present number of days. In the old Roman Calendar which was based on the moon an extra month was inserted to straighten out the difference between twelve lunations, 354.37 days, and 355 days, which they called a year. This was inserted when necessary after February 23rd. In the Julian Calendar the extra day was added by repeating the sixth day before the Kalends (1st) of March, whence comes our word bissextile for leap year.

No very significant change was made till the reform of Pope Gregory XIII in A.D. 1582.

The Julian Calendar is known as the "Old Style" and after the change made by Pope Gregory as the "New Style"; the difference between the two is 13 days. The Calendar so arranged is known as the "Old Style" and is now used by the Eastern Orthodox Church in Russia, Ukrainia, Syria and Palestine.

THE GREGORIAN CALENDAR

In that the Solar Year is 11 minutes, 12 seconds less than the Julian Year of 365¼ days, it followed in course of years that the Julian Calendar became inaccurate by several days, and in 1582 this difference amounted to 10 days. Pope Gregory XIII, at the suggestion of Aloysius Lilius, an astronomer of Naples, determined to rectify this, and devised the Calendar now known as the Gregorian Calendar. He dropped or cancelled these 10 days—October 5th being called October 15th—and made centurial years Leap years only once in 4 centuries; so that whilst 1700, 1800 and 1900 were to be ordinary years, 2000 would be Leap year. This modification brought the Gregorian year into such close exactitude with the Solar year that there is only a difference of 26 seconds, which amounts to a day in 3,323 years. This is the "New Style". The Gregorian Calendar was adopted in Italy, France, Spain, Portugal and Poland in 1582, by most of the German Roman Catholic states, Holland and Flanders in 1583, Hungary in 1587. The adoption in Switzerland began in 1584 and was not completed till 1812. The German and Dutch Protestant states generally, along with Denmark adopted it in 1700. British dominions in 1752, Sweden in 1753, Japan in 1873, China in 1912, Bulgaria in 1915, Soviet Russia in 1918, Yugoslavia in 1919, Romania and Greece in 1924, Turkey in 1927. The rules for Easter have not, however, been adopted by those oriental churches that are not subject to the Papacy.

The difference between the two "Styles" will remain 13 days until A.D. 2100.

THE JEWISH CALENDAR

The Jewish Calendar from the institution of the Mosaic Law downward was a lunar one, consisting of twelve months. The cycles of religious feasts commencing with the passover depending not only on the month but on the Moon; the 14th of the month of Abid or Nisan was coincident with the full moon; and the new moons themselves were the occasions of regular festivals; the commencement of the month was generally determined by observations of the new moon, but twelve lunar months would make but 354½ days, the years would be short twelve days of the true year and it was necessary tbat an additional month, Veader, be inserted about every third year.

The modern Jewish Calendar is based on fixed rules and not on observation. A common year may contain 353, 354 or 355 days and the Leap year 383, 384 or 385 days. The intercalary month always contains 30 days and is inserted next before the month Adar which name and place it takes. Adar itself is called second Adar or Veadar. Tishri 1 is the Jewish New Year and it cannot be a Sunday, Wednesday or Friday. Tishri 1 is not necessarily the day of new moon but is governed by a mean new moon which is calculated from the value of a mean lunation. It is complicated as compared with the Gregorian Calendar. Tbe intercalary month is introduced seven times in every nineteen years.

The identification of tbe Jewish months with our own cannot be effected with precision on account of the variations existing between the lunar and solar month.

THE MOHAMMEDAN CALENDAR

The Mohammedan Calendar is called also the Calendar of Hegira (i.e. Migration) and is attributed to the primary migration of Mohammed, tbe Prophet of Islam, on September 20th, 622 A.D. from Mecca, his native city in the land of Hejaz, Arabia, to the city of Medina in the north of the same land. In Medina the Prophet and Founder of the Islamic Faitb died and was buried.

Eacb year consists of 12 lunar months, and since no intercalation is made the months go round the seasons in between 32 and 33 years. In civil life there seems to be confusion as to the beginning of the month and unless both the day of week and day of the month are stated it is impossible to give an exact interpretation to a date.

The year 1385 according to the Hegira Calendar began on May 1st, 1965, tbe year 1386 on April 21st, 1966 Gregorian.

CALENDAR REFORM

Reform of the calendar, so that it may be balanced in structure, perpetual in form and harmonious in arrangement, bas long been under discussion.

In 1937, when an enquiry was made by the League of Nations, 14 governments approved in principle of The World Calendar. World War II delayed further action. In October 1953 India put a proposal before the Economic and Social Council of the United Nations whicb embodied The World Calendar.

At Geneva, in July 1954, it was unanimously decided to request governments of member and non-member states to express their views on tbe desirability of calendar reform.

On May 16, 1955, ECOSOC decided to extend the time for sending in replies for a year.

The World Calendar comprises equal quarters in whicb tbe first montb of each bas 31 days and the otber two 30 days each. These quarters contain exactly 91 days, 13 weeks and 3 months, with 13 Sundays and 78 weekdays, while eacb montb has 26 weekdays. The last day of every year, December 31st, is called Worldsday and is placed between Saturday, December 30th, and Sunday, January 1st. In leap years, to make up the quota of 366 days, Leapyear Day, June 31st, is similarly interposed between Saturday and Sunday at the balf year. Tbe calendar is thus stabilized and has tbe same day-and-date arrangement every year. Cbristmas always falls on Monday, Dominion Day, July 1st, on Sunday with observance on Monday.

Worldsday is designed to be a world-wide boliday dedicated to international good will. Leapyear Day would also be a day of rest.

Tbe World Calendar is sponsored by the International World Calendar Association, now with headquarters in Ottawa (address P.O. Box 20, Besserer St.) A. J. Hills Cbairman of the Canadian Affiliate bas succeeded to the Presidency. Hon C. Fraser Elliott, C.M.G., Q.C. is Honorary General Counsel, Charles Clay, B.A., F.A.G.S., is Consultant, and J. Avery Joyce, Ph.D., F.R.G.S., Representative at the United Nations.

The Association bas consultative status with the United Nations as a Non-Governmental Organization. Through its affiliates and National Committees througbout the world the Association endeavours to advance its plan of calendar reform, wbich through ECOSOC was referred to members and non-members of U.N.

In April, 1956 the item World calendar reform was withdrawn from ECOSOC by request of the Association to give time to obtain additional support.

Tbe change-over could be effected witbout disturbance when the Gregorian calendar commences on a Sunday, which will occur in 1967, Canada's Centennial Year. With Tbe World Calendar, every year commences on Sunday, January 1st.

THE WEEK

The division of the week is found only among Aryan nations and in regions into whicb they bave penetrated. The day is, for convenience, divided into 24 equal parts and is the period of a single rotation of the earth upon its own axis.

A Solar or Astronomical day commences at midnight, and is divided into two equal portions of 12 hours eacb—those before noon being termed (A.M.) those after noon (P.M.).

Tbe Chinese week consists of 5 days, whicb are named after iron, wood, water, ieatbers and earth; tbey divide the day into 12 parts of 2 hours each.

Tbe Anglo-Saxons named the days of the week after the following deities; Sunday, the Sun; Monday, the Moon; Tuesday, Tuesco (God of War); Wednesday, Woden (God of Storms); Thursday, Thor (God of Tbunder); Friday, Freya (Goddess of Love); Saturday, Saturn (God of Time).

The word week is from Wikon (German); = change, succession.

Dominical Letter

The Roman Calendar makers placed tbe letters A.B.C.D.E.F.G. against the day of the year. The letter which stands against tbe Sundays is known as the Dominical Letter. In Leap year since no letter is set opposite tbe added day one letter appears for January and February and the letter preceding for the remainder of the year.

Example—

| | A | B | C | D | E | F | G |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| 1964 | Wed. | Th. | Fri. | Sat. | Sun. | Mon. | Tu. |
| Jan. | 1 | 2 | 3 | 4 | 5 | 6 | 7 |
| Feb. | 26 | 27 | 28 | 29 | | | |
| | A | B | C | — | D | E | F |
| Mar. | | | | | 1 | 2 | 3 |

Jan. 5 (Sun.) is E. E therefore is the Dominical letter for Jan. and Feb. Since no letter is assigned for Feb. 29, Sunday from then on comes under the letter, D, which is the letter for tbe remainder of the year.

Golden Number—The calendar for the phases of the moon is nearly tbe same every 19 years which is known as the Metonic Cycle. The Golden Number is its number in this Metonic Cycle. To find the Golden Number for 1966 add 1 to 1966 and divide by 19. The remainder, 10, is the Golden Number.

Epact is the age of tbe moon on some fixed day of the calendar year. (January 1 Gregorian Calendar).

Solar Cycle

In tbe Julian Calendar the days of the year recurred on the same days of the week in 7 x 4 years; 28 years was called the Solar Cycle. It is little used now.

The Cycle of the Indiction, is a non-astronomical cycle of 15 years. Following Diocletian's reconquest of Egypt in A.D. 297 a provincial census was taken and repeated every 15 years.

Julian Period

This is a combination of the Solar Cycle of 28 years, the Metonic or Lunar Cycle of 19 years, and the Cycle of the Indiction, 15 years. Tbese are all supposed to begin on January 1 of the Julian Calendar wbicb was 4713 B.C. The Julian days are numbered consecutively from Greenwich mean noon on January 21, 4713 B.C.

NOTE: The map is incorrect as regards to southeastern Saskatchewan, due to the decision of some communities to adopt a time different from the zone to which they belong. The Dominion Observatory and the Saskatchewan Government are attempting at present to re-establish a regular boundary between Central and Mountain Time Zones.

APPARENT, MEAN AND STANDARD TIME

Apparent Time. — By apparent noon is meant the moment when the sun is on the meridian, and apparent time is measured by the distance in degrees that the sun is east or west of the meridian. Apparent time is given by the sun dial.

Mean Time. — The interval between apparent noon on two successive days is not constant, and a clock cannot be constructed to keep apparent time. For this reason mean time is used. The length of a mean day is the average of all the apparent days throughout the year. The real sun moves about the ecliptic in one year; an imaginary mean sun is considered as moving uniformly around the celestial equator in one year. The difference between the times that the real sun and the mean sun cross the meridian (i.e. between apparent noon and mean noon) is the equation of time.

Standard Time. —

Owing to the great breadth of the Dominion the difference in solar time in various parts of the country is adjusted by the creation of Standard Time Zones, one hour in width, fixed between arbitrary lines running north and south, 15° of longitude apart, the time observed in each zone being an exact number of hours slow from Greenwich.

Example: When it is 8 a.m. by Pacific Time it is 12 noon by Atlantic Time and 4 p.m. at Greenwich.

There are seven zones divided as follows, reckoning from Greenwich:

|---|---|
| Newfoundland Standard Time | Newfoundland, including Labrador, 3½ hours slow. |
| Atlantic Standard Time 60th Meridian Time | New Brunswick, Nova Scotia, Prince Edward Island, and those parts of Quebec and N.W.T. east of the 68th Meridian, 4 hours slow. |
| Eastern Standard Time 75th Meridian Time | Quebec west of the 68th Meridian and Ontario as far west as the 90th Meridian; N.W.T. between the 68th and 85th Meridian, 5 hours slow. |
| Central Standard Time 90th Meridian Time | Ontario west of the 90th Meridian, Manitoba, southeasterly part of Saskatchewan and N.W.T. between the 85th and 102nd Meridian, 6 hours slow. |
| Mountain Standard Time 105th Meridian Time | Saskatchewan except in the southeasterly part; throughout Alberta and in N.W.T. between the 102nd and 120th Meridian, 7 hours slow. |
| Pacific Standard Time 120th Meridian Time | Throughout British Columbia and in N.W.T. west of the 120th Meridian, 8 hours slow. |
| Yukon Standard Time 135th Meridian Time | Throughout Yukon Territory, 9 hours slow. |

Standard Times as used by the railways in traversing these Zones are in general use. Solar time around the globe varies four minutes with each degree of longitude.

ECLIPSES DURING 1966

In 1966 there will be four eclipses, two of the sun and two of the moon. Of these only the penumbral eclipse of the moon of the night of October 28-29 will be visible generally in North America.

1. A penumbral eclipse of the moon on May 4, not visible at all in North America.

2. An annular eclipse of the sun on May 20, visible in the South Atlantic, Africa and Asia but not at all in North America.

3. A penumbral eclipse of the moon on the night of October 28-29 "visible" (though penumbral eclipses are barely detectable) generally in North America.
Moon enters penumbra October 29, 2h 53m E.S.T.
Middle of eclipse....5h 12m E.S.T.
Moon leaves penumbra....7h 31m E.S.T.

4. A total eclipse of the sun on November 12, visible in South America and across the South Atlantic, visible as a partial eclipse in Central America, Mexico and in the American States near the Gulf of Mexico.

NOTES ON THE ASTRONOMICAL TABLES

The purpose of the following notes is to explain those tables which are not self-explanatory and to illustrate how they may be used for places other than those specified.

SUNRISE AND SUNSET (Pp. 10 to 16)

These tables give Standard Times of Sunrise and Sunset for the four Canadian cities listed. When Daylight Saving Time is in effect, of course, one hour must be added to the listed times. The calculations are for the upper limb (edge) of the sun and for the astronomical (sea) horizon. Accordingly the actual observation of Sunrise or Sunset will differ from the tabulated value if the observer is below or above the level of his visible horizon at the point of Sunrise or Sunset.

The listed times of Moonrise and Moonset have been calculated for places at the stated latitudes and for longitude 5 hours west.

To obtain the approximate times of Sunrise, Sunset, Moonrise and Moonset for other Canadian cities and towns proceed as indicated in the accompanying table. The errors for Sunrise and Sunset by this approximate method will seldom exceed 10 minutes in winter and summer or 4 minutes in spring, and for Moonrise and Moonset they will seldom exceed 15 minutes.

AZIMUTH OF THE SUN AT RISING AND SETTING (see table on page 17)

Only twice a year, namely about March 21 and September 23, does the sun rise and set more or less exactly in the east and west respectively. It is of interest and sometimes of value to know the position of Sunrise and Sunset at other timcs. The table on page 16 tabulates these positions in degrees east of north and west of north for Sunrise and Sunset respectively for a selection of latitudes and dates. For latitudes and dates other than those tabulated ake simple proportions.

MAGNETIC DECLINATION

CHART OF MAGNETIC DECLINATION

A compass needle, even when unaffected by extraneous magnetic fields, does not in general point due north. The amount and direction by which its direction differs from true north is called magnetic declination or variation. The declination varies with the position of the observer and also varies slowly with time. The above chart gives the values of declination over Canada as of 1940. These values may be used for 1966 unless accuracy of better than 1° is required.

Example: What is the direction of the compass needle at the southern tip of Lake Manitoba?

From the chart this point is about ¼ of the way from the line of 10°E declination towards the line of 15°E declination. Therefore the declination is 11°E, i.e., the needle points 11° east of true north.

A large map of Canada showing lines of Equal Magnetic Declination and Annual Change in Canada for 1965 is obtainable from the Map Distribution Office, 615 Booth St., Ottawa 4, Price $1.00 each.

MODIGLIANI THE SCULPTOR

by Alfred Werner

Despite the artist's own desire to realize himself as sculptor rather than painter, this is the first book on Modigliani's sculpture The 89 handsome illustrations are of works scattered in various museums and collections throughout Europe and the U.S.A. Dr. Werner, a well-known art critic, has provided an illuminating background to these works in addition to surveying the artist's life.

ASTRONOMY IN CANADA

Canada possesses a number of major observatories devoted to one phase or other of astronomical research. The Department of Mines and Technical Surveys of the Government of Canada operates three of these: the Dominion Observatory at Ottawa, where position astronomy, the Canadian Time Service, solar and meteor astronomy are the principal activities; the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory near Victoria where 72-inch and 48-inch reflecting telescopes are used for astrophysical and galactic research; the Dominion Radio Astrophysical Observatory near Penticton, B.C., which possesses a 25 meter diameter parabolic reflector and two large low frequency arrays for radio studies of the universe.

The University of Toronto offers specialized training in astronomy to students at both the undergraduate and graduate level. It operates the David Dunlap Observatory near Richmond Hill, which possesses a 74-inch reflecting telescope as well as several smaller optical telescopes and a number of radio telescopes of moderate size. Among its research activities are astronomical spectroscopy, studies of star clusters and galaxies and radio astronomy.

Queen's University possesses several telescopes, both optical (including a 15-inch reflector) and radio, which are used for research and student training; and the University of Western Ontario operates the Hume Cronyn Observatory which has 6 and 10 inch refracting telescopes and a 12 inch reflector. Several other Canadian Universities have small observatories used for student instruction only.

The National Research Council conducts meteor research at the Spring Hill Observatory near Ottawa and research in radio astronomy at the National Radio Laboratory at Lake Traverse in Algonquin Park where facilities are also provided for radio astronomers of Queen's University and the University of Toronto.

The Defence Research Board conducts research in radio astronomy related to defence problems at establishments near Ottawa and Prince Albert. Radio astronomy measurements are also being made by the Alouette satellite.

Observatories devoted largely to amateur astronomical observations are operated by Centres of the Royal Astronomical Society at Montreal, Quebec and Winnipeg.

There are public visiting hours at some of these observatories. The Dominion Astrophysical Observatory at Victoria is open on Saturday evenings from April 1st. to Nov. 30; the Dominion Observatory, Ottawa, Saturday evenings, April to October inclusive: David Dunlap Observatory, Richmond Hill, Ont., Saturday evenings April 1 to October 31 by reservation, and Wednesday afternoons throughout the year; Hume Cronyn Observatory, London, a schedule for the year is published each Fall; University of Saskatchewan Observatory, Saskatoon. open house every Wednesday evening; The Dominion Radio Astrophysical Observatory, Penticton, B.C.; Sundays, from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m. during July and August.

In addition to professional astronomers there are many amateurs in Canada who follow this interesting study. Most of these are members of the Royal Astronomical Society of Canada (see index) which has 16 Centres across Canada and which welcomes as members all who are interested in the subject.

METEORS, METEORITES, AND METEOR SHOWERS

A meteor or "shooting star" appears momentarily in the sky when a particle from beyond the earth enters the earth's atmosphere at a high velocity. Most visible meteors are caused by particles smaller than a grain of wheat, and these small particles are completely vaporized in the atmosphere at a height of about 80 miles. A spectacular meteor, known as a fire-ball, is caused by a larger body which may fall to the earth's surface in one or more pieces. Particles seen thus to fall, or subsequently found by analysis to be of this nature, are called meteorites.

Meteorites may be divided into two main classes—the irons, which are almost pure nickel-iron, and the stones. Any meteorite is characterized by a dark, smooth crust caused by the fusion of the outer part.

Meteors may be observed on any clear, moonless night at an average rate of about ten an hour. At times there occur meteor showers, when meteors are seen with much greater frequency and appear to radiate from a particular part of the sky which is called the radiant. This is an effect of perspective, the radiant being the vanishing point of the parallel tracks of the meteors. Meteor showers usually repeat themselves annually, and have nearly always been associated with the orbits of comets. When the earth passes through or near the orbit of a comet it intercepts straggling particles which cause meteors. The principal meteor showers for the northern hemisphere are listed below.

The study of meteors and meteorites adds to our knowledge of the nature and origin of the solar system and also to our knowledge of the earth's outer atmosphere.

BANKS IN CANADA AND THEIR BRANCHES

BANK OF CANADA

Following one of the recommendations contained in the report made to the Government in 1933 by the Royal Commission on Banking and Currency, headed by the Right Hon. Lord Macmillan, P.C., K.C., there was enacted by Parliament in the 1934 session, Chapter 43 of the Statutes of that year, incorporating the Bank of Canada as a central bank of issue and rediscount. The institution opened for business on March 11, 1935.

The Bank's functions are largely, though not entirely, regulative. It has the sole right of note issue.

Until May 1st, 1940, the Bank was required to maintain a reserve in gold coin and bullion of 25 per cent of the amount of its outstanding notes and deposit liabilities. On that date, under the authority of the War Measures Act, the reserve requirement was suspended by the Governor-in-Council. At present, under The Currency, Mint and Exchange Fund Act, the Bank is not required, unless the Governor-in-Council otherwise prescribes, to maintain a fixed ratio of gold or foreign exchange to its liabilities. The Bank now owns no gold. The Bank acts as the fiscal agent of the Government of Canada and, by agreement, may also act as banker or fiscal agent of the government of any province.

The management consists of a Board of Directors composed of a Governor, a Deputy Governor and 12 Directors, the Deputy Minister of Finance by virtue of his office being a member of the Board.

In 1938 an amending Act was passed providing that all Directors be appointed by the Government and that the entire capital of $5,000,000 shall be owned by the Government of Canada.

Since 1955, all profits of the Bank have been payable into The Consolidated Revenue Fund.

Directors, officers and employees of chartered banks and persons employed in the public service may not hold office as a Director.

THE INDUSTRIAL DEVELOPMENT BANK

The purpose of this bank is to ensure the availability of credit to industrial enterprises which may reasonably be expected to prove successful but might not otherwise be able to get credit on reasonable terms and conditions. The Bank is not intended to compete with the Chartered Banks and other lending institutions, but rather to supplement the facilities offered by these institutions.

It may lend to firms engaged in an enterprise in which is carried on any industry, trade or other business undertaking of any kind.

The Bank may accept any form of collateral security including real property, and its loans are usually for capital assistance rather than working funds, and for a period of several years, in contrast to the typical short term loans in commercial banking

The Industrial Bank is a subsidiary of the Bank of Canada, and was created by Act of Parliament on August 15th, 1944.

The authorized capital is fifty million of which thirty-eight million has been subscribed by the Bank of Canada and is fully paid. By virtue of its power to issue bonds and debentures and other provisions of its Act of Incorporation the aggregate of the total direct liabilities of the Bank, including bonds and debentures issued by the Bank, and of the total contingent liabilities of the Bank in the form of guarantees given or underwriting agreement entered into by it, shall not at any time exceed five times the aggregate amount of the paid-up capital and the Reserve Fund.

The President of the Bank is the Governor of the Bank of Canada. The Head Office is in Ottawa, and the General Manager's Office is in Montreal.

Loans Act, although security upon real or immovable property may be taken as additional collateral for debts previously incurred by the bank.

A bank is not permitted to issue or re-issue its notes payable to bearer and intended for circulation. Notes formerly issued by the banks for circulation in Canada and outstanding are redeemable by Bank of Canada upon presentation. Notes formerly issued by the banks for circulation outside Canada and outstanding are redeemable by the issuing bank upon presentation.

The shares of capital stock of a bank have a par value of $10.00 each and in case of any new issue by a bank, its shareholders have certain clearly defined rights as provided in the Act. No liability attaches to the ownership of bank shares other than any amounts remaining unpaid in respect of the subscription price of the shares.

The Bank Act embodies many provisions designed for the protection of creditors and shareholders including requirements relating to minimum cash reserves, shareholders' audits by public accountants and Government inspection. No chartered bank in Canada has failed since 1923.

POST OFFICES AND RAILROAD STATIONS
IN CANADA

Any Post Office is authorized to receive C.O.D. parcels and collect charges thereon, but only Offices printed in Italics can dispatch C.O.D. parcels. These Offices also issue and pay Money Orders. The Offices marked * are Savings Bank Offices. Places marked † are not Post Offices. Capital letters at right of Electoral District column indicate the Provinces and Territories of Canada thus: A, Alberta; BC, British Columbia; M, Manitoba; NB, New Brunswick; Nd, Newfoundland; NS, Nova Scotia; NWT, Northwest Territories; O, Ontario; PEI, Prince Edward Island; Q, Quebec; S, Saskatchewan; Yu, Yukon Territory.

A street address occurring in the centre column indicates the name of the particular sub Post Office for the city shown in column 1.

The numbers and names in column 3, opposite every place listed in column 1, indicate the Railway, Marine Shipping, or Air Line on which the place (or its nearest rail, water or air point) is situated. See list of Railways, Marine Shipping, and Air Lines on pages 78-87. For Express Companies, see pages 78-79.

WEIGHTS, MEASURES, AND STANDARDS IN CANADA

The Weights and Measures Act, R.S.C. 1952, Chapter 292, Sections 9, 12 and 13, establishes the standards of length, weight and capacity for Canada. Multiples or fractions in addition to those shown below can be found by referring to Sections 9, 10, 11, 12 and 13. The standard measure of length is the yard; one third of the yard is the foot; the twelfth part of the foot is an inch; and the cord contains one hundred and twenty-eight cubic feet. The standard measure of weight is the pound (avoirdupois); one-sixteenth of the pound is an ounce (437½ grains); one seven thousandth of the pound is a grain: a cental or hundred weight is one hundred pounds; a ton is two thousand pounds; an ounce troy is four hundred and eighty grains. The standard measure of capacity. for liquids or otherwise, is the gallon that contains ten Canadian standard pounds weight of distilled water weighed in dry air against brass weights of density 0.30346 of a pound per cubic inch with the water and air at sixty-two degrees Fahrenheit and the barometer at thirty inches. The quart contains one-fourth of the gallon; the pint contains one-eighth of the gallon; a bushel contains eight gallons; and the hundred and sixtieth part of the gallon by volume is a fluid ounce.

IMPERIAL MEASURE

The gallon, sometimes known as the "Imperial Gallon," contains 277.42 cubic inches. This compares with the American gallon of 231 cubic inches (liquid) and 268.80 cubic inches (dry). The more common comparison between liquid gallons places the Canadian about 20% greater in volume than the U.S. The common conversion fraction is 6 to 5 in favour of the Canadian gallon.

THE CANADA GRADES FOR SHELL EGGS

The grade of an egg is determined by three factors—interior quality, shell appearance and weight.

Canada Grade A1—excellent interior quality; shell clean, normal in shape and sound in construction; (an optional grade).

Canada Grade A—A very good interior quality, shell clean, practically normal in shape and sound in construction.

The weight divisions for Canada Grade A1 and Canada Grade A—

Extra Large Size—each egg weighs at least two and one-quarter ounces.

Large Size—each egg weighs at least two ounces

Medium Size—each egg weighs at least one and three-quarter ounces, but less than two ounces.

Small Size—each egg weighs at least one and one-half ounces, but less than one and three-quarter ounces.

Peewee Size—each egg weighs less than one and one-half ounces. (This size does not apply to Canada Grade A1).

Canada Grade B—standard for interior quality less than Canada Grade A; shell must be reasonably clean and may be slightly abnormal in shape, but of sound construction; each egg weighs at least one and three-quarter ounces.

Canada Grade C—standard for interior quality less than Canada Grade B; shell may be dirty but not cracked; no minimum weight. (Canada Grade A Small Size or Canada Grade A Peewee Size may be packed in this grade.)

Canada Grade Cracks—meets standards for at least Canada Grade C, except shell is cracked, but contents not leaking.

TRUST COMPANIES AND LOAN COMPANIES IN CANADA

Trust Companies act as Executors, Trustees and Administrators under wills, or by appointment as Trustees under marriage or other settlements, as Agents or Attorney in the management of estates of the living, and as Fiscal Agent for municipalities and companies. A few companies accept appointments as Authorized Trustees in Bankruptcy. Some Trust Companies receive funds and deposits for guaranteed investments, and the loaning of such trust funds is restricted by law to securities authorized by the Trustee Act. The loaning of company funds is not so restricted.

The principal function of Loan Companies is the loaning of funds on first mortgage security, the money thus made available for development purposes being obtained mainly by the sale of debentures to the investing public and by Savings Department deposits.

TRADE MARKS ACT

1-2 ELIZABETH II, CHAP. 49

A brief summary follows. A copy of the Act may be procured from The Queen's Printer, office of the Supervisor of Government Publications, Ottawa, Ont., at a cost of 35 cents a copy. It is suggested a competent attorney be consulted. The names of a number of such appear in these pages.

This Act came into force July 1, 1954, and repeals The Unfair Competition Act.

Communications concerning trade mark applications should be addressed to "The Registrar of Trade Marks", Department of the Secretary of State, Ottawa, Canada.

Interpretation

In these regulations: "the Act" means the Trade Marks Act; "applicant" means the original applicant or the transferee last recognized under rule 58; "Journal" means the Trade Marks Journal; "trade mark agent" means a person whose name is on the register of trade mark agents.

Trade Mark

Trade Mark means a mark that is used by a person for the purpose of distinguishing or so as to distinguish wares or services manufactured, sold, leased, hired or performed by him from those manufactured, sold, leased, hired or performed by others; a certification mark; a distinguishing guise, or a proposed trade mark.

Certification Marks

A certification mark may be adopted and registered only by a person who is not engaged in the manufacture, sale, leasing or hiring of wares or the performance of services such as those in association with which the certification mark is used.

Distinguishing Guise

(1) a shaping of wares or their containers, or

(2) a mode of wrapping or packaging wares, the appearance of which is used by a person for the purpose of distinguishing or so as to distinguish wares or services manufactured, etc., by him from those . . . of others.

Confusing Mark or Name

For the purposes of this Act a trade mark or trade name is confusing with another trade mark or trade name if the use of such first mentioned trade mark or trade name would cause confusion with such last mentioned trade mark or trade name in the manner and circumstances described in section 6.

Unfair Competition

No person shall make a false or misleading statement tending to discredit the business, wares or services of a competitor; direct public attention to his wares, services or business in such a way as to cause or be likely to cause confusion in Canada, at the time he commenced so to direct attention to them, between his wares, services or business and the wares, services or business of another; pass off other wares or services as and for those ordered or requested; make use, in association with wares or services, of any description that is false in a material respect and likely to mislead the public as to (i) the character, quality, quantity or composition, (ii) the geographical origin, or (iii) the mode of the manufacture, production or performance of such wares or services; or do any other act or adopt any other business practice contrary to honest industrial or commercial usage in Canada.

Prohibited Marks

No person shall adopt in connection with a business, as a trade mark or otherwise, any mark as designated in section 9 of the Act (q.v.).

(b) whether depicted, written or sounded, either clearly descriptive or deceptively misdescriptive in the English or French languages of the character or quality of the wares or services in association with which it is used or proposed to be used or of the conditions of or the persons employed in their production or of their place of origin;

(c) the name in any language of any of the wares or services in connection with which it is used or proposed to be used;

PATENTS IN CANADA

The Patent Act, Chap. 203, RS., 1952.
A synopsis of the principal provisions of The Patent Act are given below:—
For a copy of the Act apply to the Commissioner of Patents, Ottawa, who receives all applications and has charge of all records.

As it is difficult for an applicant to properly comply with the regulations of the Patent Office unless he is conversant with the process of obtaining a patent, any persons contemplating obtaining a patent is advised to consult one of the patent solicitors whose cards appear in this volume.

Definition of Invention

The Act defines "invention" as any new and useful art, process, machine, manufacture or composition of matter, or any new and useful improvement in the same.

Who May Obtain Patents

Subject to the various provisions of the Act, any inventor or legal representative of an inventor, of an invention which was:

(a) not known or used by others before he invented it, and

(b) not described in any patent or in any publication printed in Canada or in any other country more than two years before presentation of the petition, and

(c) not in public use or on sale in Canada for more than two years prior to his application in Canada may obtain a patent granting him an exclusive property in such invention.

Any inventor or legal representative of an inventor who applies in Canada for a patent for an invention for which application for patent has been made in any other country by such inventor or his legal representative before the filing of the application in Canada, shall not be entitled to obtain in Canada a patent for that invention unless his application in Canada is filed:

(a) before issue of any patent to such inventor or his legal representative for the same invention in any other country; or

(b) if a patent has issued in any other country within twelve months after the filing of the first application by such inventor or his legal representative for patent for such invention in any other country.

No patent shall issue for an invention which has an illicit object in view, or for any mere scientific principle or abstract theorem.

Application for Patents

An applicant for a patent shall state in his application, if resident in Canada, his address in Canada. If not so resident, the name and address of some person resident in Canada who has been nominated to represent the applicant or patentee for all purposes of the Act including the service of any proceedings taken under any provision of the Act. This representative may be changed if necessary.

Each application for a patent shall be completed and prepared for examination within twelve months after the filing of the application, and in default thereof, or upon failure of the applicant to prosecute the same within six months after any examiner's action thereon of which notice shall have been given to the applicant, such application shall be deemed to have been abandoned, but it may be reinstated within twelve months after the date on which it was deemed to have been abandoned, if the failure to prosecute the application within the time specified was not reasonably avoidable. An application so reinstated shall retain its original filing date.

Treaty or Convention Rights

Section 29 (1). provides that an application for a patent filed in Canada by any person entitled to protection under the terms of any treaty or convention relating to patents to which Canada is a party who has, or whose agent or other legal representative has previously regularly filed an application for a patent for the same invention in any other country which by treaty convention or law affords similar privilege to citizens of Canada, shall have the same force and effect as the same application would have if filed in Canada on the date on which the application for patent for the same invention was first filed in such other country, provided the application in this country is filed within twelve months from the earliest date on which any such application was filed in such other country or from the thirteenth day of June, 1923.

No patent shall be granted on an application for a patent for an invention which had been patented or described in a patent or publication printed in Canada or any other country more than two years before the date of the actual filing of the application in Canada, or which had been in public use or on sale in Canada for more than two years prior to such filing.

Joint Application

Section 33 (1), new in 1947, provides that:

(1) Where an invention is made by two or more inventors, and one of them refuses to make application for a patent or his whereabouts cannot be ascertained after diligent enquiry, the other inventor or his legal representative may make application, and a patent may be granted in the name of the inventor who makes the application, on satisfying the Commissioner that the joint inventor has refused to make application or that his whereabouts cannot be ascertained after diligent enquiry.

Where an applicant has agreed to assign a patent when granted to another person or to a joint applicant and refuses to proceed with the application; or where disputes arise between joint applicants as to proceeding with the application, the Commissioner may grant a patent to either one of the parties. Procedure is also outlined when a joint applicant retires or is added.

Assignments—Applicants not Inventors

A patent may be granted to any person to whom an inventor has assigned or bequeathed by his last will his right to obtain it and the assignee may register such an assignment, after which the application cannot be withdrawn without the consent of the assignee.

Improvements May Be Patented

Any improvement to a patented invention may be patented.

Term of Patent

The term limit for the duration of patents issued by the Patent Office under this Act is 17 years from the date on which the patent is granted and issued but if the application for the patent was filed prior to August 1, 1935, the term is 18 years from the date on which the patent is granted and issued.

Refusal of Patents

Where a patent is refused, the applicant may any time within 6 months' appeal the decision to the Exchequer Court. (Sec. 44)

Government Owned Patents

Sections 20, 21, and 22 are new in 1947, dealing with secret patents and patents relating to Atomic Energy. Section 20 (1) provides that:

20 (1) Any officer, servant or employee of the Crown or of a corporation which is an agent or servant of the Crown, who, acting within the scope of his duties and employment as such, invents any invention in instruments or munitions of war, shall, if so required by the Minister of National Defence, assign to such minister on behalf of Her Majesty all the benefits of the invention and of any patent obtained or to be obtained for the invention: and any other person who invents any such invention may so assign to such minister on behalf of Her Majesty all the benefits of the invention and of any patent obtained or to be obtained for the invention.

Provision is made that an inventor, other than those mentioned in the preceding section, shall be entitled to compensation. Persons making assignments or having knowledge thereof are deemed to have information entrusted in confidence. Other provisions deal with secrecy. Subsection (15) provides that:

The Governor in Council, if satisfied that an invention relating to any instrument or munition of war, described in any specified application for patent not assigned to the Minister of National Defence, is vital to the defence of Canada and that the publication of a patent therefor should be prevented in order to preserve the safety of the State, may order that such invention and application and all the documents relating thereto shall be treated for all purposes of this section as if the invention had been assigned or agreed to be assigned to the Minister of National Defence.

Infringement

Anyone infringing a patent shall be liable to the patentee and to all persons claiming under him for all damages sustained by the patentee or by any such person by reason of such infringement; and the Court may issue an injunction restraining the opposite party from the further use,sale, etc., of the article.

Provision is made that a person who, previous to the granting of the patent has purchased, constructed or acquired any invention shall have the right of using and selling the article, etc.

Impeachment

If any person has reasonable cause to believe that any process used or proposed to be used or any article made, used or sold or proposed to be made, used or sold by him might be alleged by any patentee to constitute an infringement of an exclusive property or privilege granted thereby, he may bring an action in the Exchequer Court of Canada against the patentee for a declaration that such process or article does not or would not constitute an infringement of such exclusive property or privilege.

Priority of Inventions

No patent or claim in a patent shall be declared invalid or void on the ground that, before the invention therein defined was made by the inventor by whom the patent was applied for it had already been known or used by some other inventor, unless it is established either that,

(a) before the date of the application for the patent such other person had disclosed or used the invention in such manner that it had become available to the public; or that

(b) such other person had, before the issue of the patent, made an application for patent in Canada upon which conflict proceedings should have been directed; or that

(c) such other person had at any time made an application in Canada which by virtue of section twenty-nine of this Act had the same force and effect as if it had been filed in Canada before the issue of the patent and upon which conflict proceedings should properly have been directed had it been so filed.

Patented Article to be Marked or Stamped

Every patentee under this Act shall, if possible, stamp or engrave on each patented article sold or offered for sale by him notice of the year of the date of the patent applying to such article, thus—Patented, 1935, or as the case may be.

When, from the nature of any patented article it cannot be so stamped or engraved the patentee shall, if possible, affix to it, or to every package wherein one or more of such article is or are enclosed, a label marked with the like notice.

When any patented article or material is, from its nature or character such that it cannot be so stamped or engraved and cannot, reasonably, be packaged or labelled the patentee shall, in all descriptive or advertising matter published by him and relating to such patented article or material, insert the like notice.

Abuse of Rights Under Patents Not Working a Patented Invention

The Attorney General of Canada or any person interested may at any time after the expiration of three years from the date of the grant of a patent apply to the Commissioner alleging in the case of that patent that there has been an abuse of the exclusive rights thereunder and asking for relief under this Act.

The exclusive rights under a patent shall be deemed to have been abused in any of the following circumstances:—

(a) If the patented invention (being one capable of being worked within Canada) is not being worked within Canada on a commercial scale, and no satisfactory reason can be given for such non-working:

Provided that, if an application is presented to the Commissioner on this ground, and the Commissioner is of opinion that the time which has elapsed since the grant of the patent has by reason of the nature of the invention or for any other cause been insufficient to enable the invention to be worked within Canada on a commercial scale, the Commissioner may make an order adjourning the application for such period as will in his opinion be sufficient for that purpose:

(b) If the working of the invention within Canada on a commercial scale is being prevented or hindered by the importation from abroad of the patented article by the patentee or persons claiming under him, or by persons directly or indirectly purchasing from him, or by other persons against whom the patentee is not taking or has not taken any proceedings for infringement:

(c) If the demand for the patented article in Canada, is not being met to an adequate extent and on reasonable terms:

(d) If, by reason of the refusal of the patentee to grant a licence or licences upon reasonable terms, the trade or industry of Canada or the trade of any person or class of persons trading in Canada, or the establishment of any new trade or industry in Canada, is prejudiced and it is in the public interest that a licence or licences should be granted;

(e) If any trade or industry in Canada, or any person or class of persons engaged therein, is unfairly prejudiced by the conditions attached by the patentee, whether before or after the passing of this Act, to the purchase, hire, licence, or use of the patented article, or to the using or working of the patented process;

(f) If it is shown that the existence of the patent, being a patent for an invention relating to a process involving the use of materials not protected by the patent or for an invention relating to a substance produced by such a process, has been utilized by the patentee so as unfairly to prejudice in Canada the manufacture, use or sale of any such materials.

License where Invention not being Worked

If a case of abuse is established the Commissioner may order a grant to an applicant of a licence on such terms as the Commissioner may think expedient; or if he is satisfied that an invention is not being worked on a commercial scale within Canada, he may under certain circumstances order the grant of an exclusive licence to an applicant able to provide capital for the working of the patent; or he may order the patent to be revoked.

In granting an exclusive licence a royalty shall be arranged payable to the patentee.

Caveats

Any intending applicant for a patent who has not yet perfected his invention and is in fear of being despoiled of his idea, may file in the Patent Office a document setting forth a description of his invention so far as it has proceeded, with or without plans, at his own will, and the Commissioner, on payment of the prescribed fee shall cause that document, which shall be called a "caveat," to be preserved in secrecy with the exception that he shall deliver copies thereof whenever required by the applicant or by any judicial tribunal. The secrecy of the document shall cease when the applicant obtains a patent for his invention.

If application is made by any other person for a patent for any invention with which such "caveat" may in any respect interfere the Commissioner shall forthwith give notice of such application by mail to the person who has filed such "caveat", and such person shall, within three months after the date of mailing the notice, if he wishes to avail himself of the "caveat", file his petition and take the other steps necessary on an application for a patent, and if, in the opinion of the Commissioner, the applications are conflicting, like proceedings may be had in all respects as are by this Act provided in the case of conflicting applications.

Unless the person filing a "caveat" makes application within one year from such filing the Commissioner shall be relieved from the obligation of giving notice and the "caveat" shall thereafter remain as a simple matter of proof as to novelty or priority of invention, if required.

Patents Issuen Out of Canada

The Commissioner shall upon the request of any person who states in writing the name of the inventor, if available, the title of the invention and the number and date of a patent said to have been granted in another country inform such person whether an application for a patent of the same invention is pending in Canada or not.

Jurisniction of Exchequer Court

54. The Exchequer Court of Canada shall have jurisdiction, on the application of the Commissioner or of any person interested, to order that any entry in the records of the Patent Office relating to the title to a patent be varied or expunged.

Patent Attorneys

A register of attorneys shall be kept in the Patent Office containing the names of all attorneys entitled to represent applicants for patents.

Fees

The principal fees are as follows:—

On filing an application for patent.....$30.00
On grant of patent, payable on pain of forfeiture within six months from the date of notice of the allowance of patent.....$30.00
On asking reinstatement of abandoned application under section thirty-one.....$25.00
On filing an amendment after allowance of an application for patent.....$10.00
On lodging a caveat.....$10.00
On petition to reissue a patent after surrender $50.00
On asking for a certified typewritten or photostat copy of patent with specification, not exceeding 20 pages, exclusive of drawings.....$4.00
On filing an application or petition under sections 41, 67, or 68 of the Act—for each patent mentioned therein.....$10.00

Printed copies of Patents granted from January 1st 1949 to date are available at a cost per copy of one dollar ($1.00).

Forfeited Applications

75 (2) A forfeited application may be restored and a patent granted thereon on application to the Commissioner within six months from the incurrence of the forfeiture, on payment with the application for restoration, in addition to the fee payable on the grant of the patent, of a further fee of thirty dollars and the restored application shall be subject to amendment and re-examination.

THE CANADIAN LAW OF COPYRIGHT

by Harold G. Fox, Q.C.

What Is Copyright? Copyright, as its name implies, is merely the right to restrain copying. By the terms of the Canadian Copyright Act, which came into force on January 1st, 1924, copyright subsists in every original literary, dramatic, musical, and artistic work. The work must be original and its author must, at the date of its making, be a British subject, a citizen or subject of a foreign country which has adhered to the Berne Convention, or be resident within the British Dominions; and if in the case of a published work the work was first published within British dominions or in a country which has adhered to the Berne Convention. A work is deemed to be first published in such a country if published there and in some other country simultaneously. The last word is interpreted as allowing fourteen days interval between the publication in the two countries.

Publication means the issue of copies to the public. It does not include the performance in public of a dramatic or musical work, the delivery in public of a lecture, the exhibition in public of an artistic work, or the construction of an architectural work of art. Nor does the issue of photographs and engravings of works of sculpture and architectural works of art constitute publication of such works.

Copyright is defined by the Act as the sole right to produce or reproduce the work or any substantial part thereof in any material form whatsoever, to perform, or in the case of a lecture to deliver, the work or any substantial part thereof in public; if the work is unpublished, to publish the work or any substantial part thereof. Copyright as conferred by the statute includes the sole right to produce, reproduce, perform, or publish translations of the work, the sole right to convert from a dramatic work to a non-dramatic work, to convert from a non-dramatic work or an artistic work to a dramatic work, by way of performance in public or otherwise, to make records, perforated rolls, cinematograph films or other contrivances by means of which the work may be mechanically performed or delivered; to reproduce, adapt and publicly present the work by cinematograph, to communicate it by radio communication, and to authorize any of these acts.

Originality. The originality required by the statute relates to the expression of thought. The form in which the work is clothed should be original although the idea or concept upon which the work is based need have no originality whatsoever. Originality in copyright law means that the work must be in a form created by its author and must not be copied from any other work. An illustration of this principle may be furnished in simple terms by reference to copyright in paintings. An artist may paint a particular scene, let us say, in the Laurentian mountains. A second artist may set up his easel on exactly the same spot as the first artist and may paint exactly the same scene, as he sees it. Whatever similarity the two works may have is irrelevant. The second work is an original work and entitled to copyright. If, however, the second artist does not go to the scene itself, but paints his canvas from a view of the first artist's canvas, the second artist not only infringes the first artist's copyright, but is not entitled to copyright in his own work. The same principle, of course, applies to photographs.

In order to understand this principle it will be useful to refer to copyright in compilations and anthologies. An author may decide to write, as an example, a history of the Roman Empire. He cannot know that history other than by reading the sources, original and secondary. From these he compiles a work based upon the works of others, but to which he has lent an original character by his own mental labours, and is therefore entitled to copyright in that work. A second author may go to the same original and secondary sources and compile a like work. He is entitled to copyright in it and does not infringe the copyright of the first compiler provided he uses the first compiler's work fairly and only for checking the accuracy of his own without copying any substantial part of it.

Literary Works. Literary works are those which are expressed in print or writing such as books, maps, plans, tables and compilations. Copyright in a work includes the title of the work if that title is original and distinctive, but the mere taking of a title apart from any substantial part of a work does not constitute infringement. It is only when the title has become so far identified with a work as to mean that work and that work alone in the minds of the public, that such a taking can be restrained on the ground that the second work is passed off on the public as and for the first work.

Dramatic Works. Dramatic works include any piece for recitation, choreographic work, or entertainment in dumb show, the scenic arrangement or acting form of which is fixed in writing or otherwise, and any cinematograph production where the arrangement or acting form or the combination of incidents represented give the work an original character. Copyright subsists not only in the actual words of the work but in the dramatic incidents created. In order to be protected as a dramatic work there must be some dramatic action. On this basis a dance step or piece of dramatic action may be protected by a written description of the acts of the performer. In that case there is a double copyright, one in the writing itself as a literary work and the other in the reproduction of the dance or drama, which is thus fixed in writing.

Musical Works. Musical works are defined as any combination of melody and harmony, or either of them, printed, reduced to writing or otherwise graphically produced or reproduced. There is, therefore, no copyright in an impromptu until its notation has been fixed in writing or print by the composer. There then exists the right to restrain either its copying in printed form or its public performance.

Artistic Works. Artistic works include works of painting, drawing, sculpture and artistic craftsmanship, and architectural works of art and engravings and photographs. Engravings include etchings, lithographs, woodcuts, prints and other similar works not being photographs. An architectural work means any building or structure having an artistic character or design in respect of such character or design, or any model for such building or structure, but the protection is confined to the artistic character and design and does not extend to processes or methods of construction.

Industrial Designs. Certain works fall within the definition of artistic works but will not be subject to copyright owing to certain conditions. These are such works as are designs capable of being registered under the Industrial Design and Union Label Act, and used or intended to be used as models or patterns to be multiplied by any industrial process. Designs which do not meet that definition are not industrial designs but artistic works and are subject to artistic copyright. A design is deemed to be used as a model or pattern to be multiplied by an industrial process when it is reproduced or intended to be reproduced in more than fifty single copies not together constituting a set or is to be applied to (1) printed paper hangings, (2) carpets, floor cloths or oil cloths manufactured or sold in lengths or pieces, (3) textile piece goods or textile goods manufactured or sold in lengths or pieces or (4) lace, not made by hand.

Literary or Artistic Merit. In no case need the subject of copyright possess any degree of literary or artistic merit. It would be highly improper if copyright were to depend on the opinion of any court as to the presence or absence of such an elusive quality, depending solely on individual taste, value, or discretion. The writer of doggerel verse or the mystery novel is entitled to the same copyright as the winner of the Nobel prize in literature, and the author of the comic strip cartoon receives no less protection than do those whose works are hung in the galleries of the nation. In this regard the applicable maxim is De gustibus non disputandum.

Immoral Works. There is one minor qualification to the above remarks. The courts will not protect immoral, indecent, obscene, or blasphemous works. What falls within the scope of these terms is impossible of definition and must depend upon the susceptibilities and sensibilities of any court adjudicating upon the matter. Thus, thirty years ago Elinor Glynn's Three Weeks was held to be an obscene work disentitled to protection. Within the present decade Judge Wolsey, in the United States, promulgated his now famous decision holding that Joyce's Ulysses was not an immoral work and more recently, the High Court in England refused to find that Lawrence's Lady Chatterley's Lover was obscene. Tempora mutantur nos et nutamur in illis! It may safely be said in principle that a work which is not purely pornographic but is honest work endeavouring to create an atmosphere, to depict life or to delineate the author's or artist's concept of things as they are or ought to be, would not be held to be immoral and would be entitled to copyright.

Ownership of Copyright. The author of the work is, in general, the first owner of the copyright. The author is the person who actually writes, draws, paints, carves, models, fabricates, or composes the work, unless he is a mere amanuensis or workman. A person who suggests the idea of a work is not its author or even joint author. A ghost writer, therefore, is the author of the biography which he writes and the possibly famous person of whom he writes and who supplies the facts and recollections upon which the biography is based is not entitled to any share in the copyright—unless, of course, there is an agreement to the contrary. It should always be remembered that copyright is a property right and, therefore, contracts can be made respecting its ownership and disposal.

A work of joint authorship is one produced by the collaboration of two or more authors in which the contribution of one author is not distinct from the contribution of the other author or authors. Joint authors, in general, own copyright in equal shares.

In the case of photographs the person or corporation owning the original negative from which the photograph is made is deemed to be the author and therefore the owner of the copyright. The same principle applies in the case of the owner of the original plate from which any records, perforated rolls and other contrivances for mechanically reproducing sounds were derived.

Where a plate or other original of an engraving, photograph or portrait is ordered and made for valuable consideration and pursuant to the order, then, in the absence of agreement to the contrary, the person giving the order and not the author of the work is the first owner of copyright. This is an important principle. In the case of a portrait painter, the subject who gives the order and pays for the portrait receives not only the finished portrait for which he pays, but the copyright in his portrait as well. In the case of photographs the same principle applies. But where the photographer takes photographs on speculation and then endeavours to sell them to the subject, it is the photographer who owns the copyright.

Where the author of the work is in the employment of some other person under a contract of service or apprenticeship and the work was made in the course of his employment by that person, the person by whom the author was employed is, in the absence of any agreement to the contrary, the first owner of the copyright. Where, therefore, a writer on a newspaper or magazine holds a position on the staff of that publication for which he is paid a salary, and writes, let us say, feature articles, the copyright in those articles belongs to the owner of the publication. If, however, an independent or free lance writer is retained to write a series of articles for which the owner of the publication contracts to pay him a certain sum of money, the copyright in those articles belongs to the writer and not to the owner of the publication, because the writer is under a contract for service and not a contract of service.

Where an article or other contribution to a newspaper, magazine or similar periodical, is written by a staff writer acting in the course of his employment and there is no agreement to the contrary, although the copyright in the article resides in the owner of the publication, the writer nevertheless has reserved to him a right to restrain its publication otherwise than as part of a newspaper, magazine or similar periodical. Thus a staff writer may contribute to his newspaper or magazine a series of twenty or thirty articles. It is then decided to publish those articles in book form. The owner of the publication cannot publish without the author's consent, and the author, not being the owner of the copyright, cannot publish without the consent of the owner of the publication. The only way publication can occur is by mutual agreement, and in such case it is presumed that the author will make his bargain to his best advantage.

There is a distinct cleavage between the intangible right known to the law as copyright, and the ownership of the physical embodiment in which that right resides. This is of particular importance in the case of artistic works. Many painters and sculptors are unaware of the fact that when they sell one of their works they do not necessarily part with the right to reproduce it or, in other words, to issue copies of it to the public. It must also be said that many purchasers of artistic works, particularly art galleries, national and otherwise, take an arbitrary view of the rights they acquire when they purchase an artistic work. Copyright is something entirely apart from the piece of canvas and pigment composing a painting and from the mass of bronze, marble or other material forming a work of sculpture. The sale of the physical object and the transfer of property therein do not of themselves transfer copyright. Copyright is a separate and distinctly existing right and can only be transferred by contract, express or implied. For this reason authors, artists, composers, sculptors and other creators of original works would be well advised to ensure that every sale of their works is made in accordance with a written memorandum. If such a procedure were generally adopted the present habit indulged in by art galleries of selling photographs and other reproductions of artistic works in their possession without compensation to the artist would promptly cease.

But, since the practice of selling photographs is to the publicity advantage of both gallery and artist, artists would be well advised to enter into an agreement with galleries to continue to issue photographs on a royalty basis.

Term of Copyright. The general term of copyright in works published and performed in public during the author's lifetime is the life of the author and fifty years after his death. In the case of a literary, dramatic or musical work or an engraving in which copyright subsists at the time of the death of the author, but which has not been published nor performed, nor in the case of a lecture, been delivered in public before that date, copyright subsists till publication or performance or delivery in public, whichever may first happen, and for a term of fifty years thereafter. It will thus be seen that copyright in unpublished works may extend almost indefinitely.

In case of works of joint authorship copyright subsists during the life of the author who dies last and fifty years after his death. The term of copyright in photographs is fifty years from the making of the original negative. In the case of records, perforated rolls, and other mechanical contrivances for the reproduction of sound, the term is fifty years from the making of the original matrix, plate, or negative.

Copyright in Government publications is fifty years from the date of first publication. This term is provided by statute, but one would be well advised to remember that the Crown may well claim a prerogative right of copyright in perpetuity.

In all cases of published works the term of copyright is subject to a statutory right for any person to reproduce the work on statutory terms at any time after the expiration of twenty-five years or, in the case of works in which copyright subsisted on June 4, 1921, thirty years, from the death of the author. The statutory terms require notice of intention to publish and the payment of royalties calculated at 10 per cent of the published price of the work.

Assignment and Licence. Creators of original works may assign their copyright either wholly or partially and either generally or subject to territorial limitations and either for the whole term of the copyright or for any part thereof, and may grant any interest in the right by way of licence. No such assignment or grant is, however, valid unless it is in writing signed by the owner of the copyright or by his duly authorized agent. The owner of copyright may, therefore, split the right into as many component parts as he desires. He may assign or license the right to publish, to produce or to reproduce his work on one or a million occasions. He may allow reproduction in one or a dozen countries or in one or a thousand cities. He may assign or license to different persons the rigbt to reproduce a work of art by photography and by colour process. He may license its reproduction to one person for a calendar and to anotber for a Christmas card. In fact there is hardly any limit that can be placed upon the dealings which a copyright owner may have in his copyright if be can find someone who dcsires a particular part of tbe right and is willing to pay for it.

Where part of tbe copyright is assigned, tbe assignee becomes the owner of that part of the right. If, therefore, the composer of a musical work assigns the right of public performance, the assignce can restrain everybody else from performing the work in public. He cannot, bowever, restrain the autbor or the person to whom the author may assign that particular part of the copyrigbt from issuing printed copies of the musical score to the public.

An assignee or licensee is wise to register bis assignment or licence in the Copyright Office at Ottawa.

Droit Moral. Tbe moral right of an author is recognized by the Canadian Copyright Act which provides that, independently of the copyright and even after the assignment, he shall have the right to claim authorship of the work and to restrain distortion, mutilation or other modification 'n the work wbich would be prejudicial to bis honour or reputation. The statute does not say wbo is to decide what amount or what quality of distortion, mutilation or modification would be prejudicial to an author's honour or reputation. This is a subject which has received wide treatment in tbe European and South American countries. There is no corresponding section in the British Copyright Act and, despite the quarter of a century during which the section has found its place in tbe Canadian statute, no case has been heard by the courts in which tbis section was invoked. It is interesting to speculate whether the reason for such lack of interest in tbe section lies in the honesty and integrity of Canadian publishers, performers and owners of other reproducing media or in the apathy and indifference of Canadian authors, artists, and composers.

Formalities. Copyright under tbe Canadian Copyright Act is automatic and the author of a work need comply with no formality whatsoever in order that he shall possess copyright in his work. The statute contains provisions for registration of copyright but these are permissive only and no registration need take place. There is one minor point on which registration migbt possibly benefit the author but it is involved in such legal technicalities tbat it need not be discussed further. It may safely be said that an author is perfectly protected if be entirely neglects to register his copyright.

Berne Convention. Once a work is made, copyright subsists not only in Canada but throughout the British Commonwealth and all countries which have adhered to the Berne Convention.

Universal Copyright Convention. On August 10, 1962, Canada adhered to the Universal Copyright Convention. Provided that works first published in Canada bear tbe words "Copyright" (or the Universal Copyright symbol consisting of the letter 'C' in a circle), the year of first publication, and the name of the copyright owner, copyrights will subsist in all countries which have adhered to the Universal Copyright Convention. The United States is a member of the Universal Copyright Convention.

Infringement. Infringement consists in doing without the consent of tbe owner of the copyright anything the sole right to do whicb is by the Copyright Act conferred on the owner of the copyright. It will thus be seen that it is infringement, without the consent of the owner of tbe copyright, to issue copies of a work to tbe public, to perform it in public, to reproduce it in any manner, to make a translation of it, to convert a novel into a dramatic work, to convert a dramatic work into a novel, and so on. But it must be empbasized that copyright is not an absolute monopoly, but is only the right to restrain copying, and if some other person produces a similar work independently of tbe owner of tbe copyright, tbere will be no infringement.

Importation of infringing works constitutes infringement as well as tbeir being made in the country. There are effective provisions in tbe Copyright Act and in the Customs Tariff Act for preventing importation of infringing copies.

Tbe making of only one copy of a work will constitute infringement and it need not be an exact copy. A colourable imitation is sufficient. There must, bowever, be a substantial part of the work taken or a substantial part of the work performed in public. In one case tbe reproduction of the march Colonel Bogey consisting of so mucb as was played in twenty seconds was held to be an infringement. In another case dealing with the musical work Walking my Baby back Home sufficient was played to allow the court to recognize the tune, althougb the evidence was so conflicting that the plaintiff claimed tbat thirty-two bars had becn played and tbe defendant claimed only five bars had been played.

There are specific provisions relative to infringement in cases of making records and otber mechanical contrivances for tbe reproduction of sounds. They are somewhat complicated but, in general, tbey provide that tbe making of such contrivances shall not constitute infringement if similar contrivances have previously been made by, or with the consent of, tbe owner of the copyright, and the person who makes them gives notice of his intention to make them and pays the stipulated royalty of two cents per perforated roll or playing surface.

Lawful Use of Copyright. By statute there are certain lawful uses of copyright and no person is permitted to complain if the use of his work is made under the following circumstances:

1. Any fair dealing with any work for the purpose of private study, research, criticism, review or newspaper summary. The use must be fair. Thus in one Canadian case an entire article was printed in a newspaper as the basis upon wbich a criticism was printed following it. The court held that this was not fair dealing.

2. The autbor of an artistic work who is not the owner of copyrigbt therein may use any mould, cast, sketch, plan, model or study made by him for the purpose of the work, provided that be does not thereby repeat or imitate the main design of the work.

3. Paintings, drawings, engravings, or photographs may be made of a work of sculpture or artistic craftsmanship if permanently situated in a public place or building. The same thing may be done in connection with any architectural work of art so long as such drawings, etc., are not in the nature of architectural drawings or plans.

4. Short passages from copyright published literary works which are not themselves publisbed for the use of schools may be published in a collection mainly composed of non-copyright matter bona fide intended for the use of schools and so described in the title and in any advertisements issued by the publisher. But no more tban two of such passages from works by the same author may be publisbed by the same publisher within five years and in each case the source from which such passages are taken must be acknowledged.

5. A newspaper may publish a report of a lecture delivered in public, unless the report is prohibited by a conspicuous notice affixed before and maintained during tbe lecture.

6. The reading or recitation in public by one person of any reasonable extract from any published work. Note the limitation to "one person." This precludes the public performance by more than one actor of even a small scene in a dramatic work.

7. Any musical work may be performed without motive of gain by tbe directors at any agricultural, agricultural-industrial exhibition or fair which received a grant from or is held under Dominion, provincial or municipal autbority.

8. Any church, college or school and any religious, charitable or fraternal organization may perform any musical work witbout payment if done in furtherance of a religious, educational, or charitable object.

9. A report of an address of a political nature delivered at a public meeting may be published in a newspaper.

Remedies for Infringement. In case of infringement the owner of copyright has two remedies. He may sue the infringer in the civil courts for damages incurred by him, as well as the profits made by the infringer, and may ask for the delivery to him of all infringing copies. Sucb an action is to be brought within three years after the infringement takes place. In addition, the owner of the copyright may prosecute tbe infringer criminally for his acts. This should give the copyright owner little, if any, personal satisfaction and no gain would accrue to him other than the satisfaction of personal animus. The first remedy is the proper one and is that which ought to be followed.

Works made before 1924. Copyright as we now know it came into effect with the new Canadian Copyright Act on January 1, 1924. But copyright subsisted in many works in Canada at that date, and in such cases they received copyright under the new Act by virtue of a special transition section. It would be difficult to express in any moderate space the principles upon which copyright subsisted in Canada prior to 1924. There was in existence a Canadian Copyright Act prior to that date which required registration and any work registered under that Act would naturally be the subject of copyright. But copyright might also have subsisted in certain works prior to 1924 which were not registered under that Act. We may state the position shortly as follows:

1. Copyright subsisted at the effective date (January 1, 1924) in all works then unpublished whatever their nature.

2. Literary works published in the British Dominions were the subject of copyright whether registered or unregistered either in Canada or at Stationers' Hall in London.

3. Dramatic works were protected as literary works in their printed form, but so far as their performing right was concerned copyright subsisted during the life of the author and seven years after his death, or forty-two years from the date of first performance of the work. If the work fell within that definition on the effective date copyright subsisted in that work provided it had not been first performed in a foreign country to which the Imperial International Copyright Act did not extend.

4. Musical works enjoyed copyrlght in printed form as literary works, whether registered or unregistered and so far as concerned their performing right were treated the same as dramatic works.

5. Artistic works were protected prior to 1924 only if they were registered under the then existing Canadian Copyright Act.

6. Mechanical contrivances for reproducing sounds, if made before January 1, 1924, are by special provision treated as if the present Copyright Act had been in force at the time they were made.

The above is not intended to be an exhaustive statement of the law of copyright prior to the commencement of the present Copyright Act. It is, however, of the utmost importance when considering works in existence before January 1, 1924 to understand what was their status at that effective date because the new Act contains a transition section which conferred copyright under the new Act upon all works in which copyright subsisted at the effective date. The first thing to decide, therefore, is whether a work was or was not the subject of copyright on January 1, 1924. If it was, no matter what the nature or term of the copyright to which it was then entitled, it is now entitled, generally speaking, to copyright as established by the new Copyright Act.

Future Leoislation. The Report on Copyright of the Royal Commission on Patents, Copyright, Trade Marks and Industrial Designs was published on August 1st, 1957. Many radical changes in the law of copyright are proposed, but no bill has as yet been presented to Parliament. The above summary therefore sets out the law applicable at present until such time as a new Statute is enacted.

It is a matter of no little difficulty to endeavour to explain the principles of the law of Copyright within the short compass of this article. Many subjects have obviously been left untouched and there will naturally remain many pitfalls for the unwary. The intention of this article is to give to the author, artist, sculptor and composer, a very broad and general idea of the rights he possesses in his original creations. Those rights ought to be protected and their owners will find that an appreciation and understanding of those rights and an insistence upon their recognition will earn them respect in this commercial world, while at the same time according to them some measure of reward for their labours. Those labours have produced and are producing great works for the benefit and enjoyment of mankind and as a famous jurist said nearly two centuries ago, "It is wise in any state to encourage letters and the painful researches of learned men. The easiest and most equal way of doing it, is, by securing to them the property of their own works. Nobody contributes, who is not willing; and though a good book may be run down and a bad one cried up, for a time; yet sooner or later, the reward will be in proportion to the merit of the work. A writer's fame will not be the less, that he has bread, without being under the necessity of prostituting his pen to flattery or party, to get it. He who engages in a laborious work, which may employ his whole life, will do it with more spirit, if, besides his own glory, he thinks it may be a provision for his family."

ONTARIO

The Succession Duty Act, being Chapter 386 of The Revised Statutes of Ontario, 1960

Aggregate Value

"Aggregate Value" which determines the normal rates of duty means the value at the death of the deceased of the property wherever situate passing on his death together with the value of all lifetime dispositions wherever made, where such dispositions are made on or after the first day of July, 1892, less allowable debts, reasonable funeral expenses, Surrogate Court fees, solicitors fees for obtaining probate or letters of administraton to the extent of $100.00 and less the exemptions authorized by section 5 and specified below.

Estates Exempt from Succession Duty

1. An estate, the aggregate value of which does not exceed $10,000.00.

2. An estate, the aggregate value of which does not exceed $20,000.00, where the only persons who participate are the following, or some of them, and any one of the persons mentioned in (a), (b), (c) or (d) does not receive more than $10,000.00.

(a) Any brother or sister of the deceased;

(b) Any descendant of a brother or sister of the deceased;

(c) Any brother or sister of the father or mother of the deceased;

(d) Any descendant of a brother or sister of the father and mother of the deceased.

(e) The persons mentioned, or referred to, in 3. below, and any lineal ancestor of the deceased.

Note: Where the aggregate value does not exceed $20,000.00, but a collateral receives over $10,000.00, the present additional rate only will apply but the present base rate will not apply.

3. An estate, the aggregate value of which does not exceed $50,000.00, where the only persons who participate are the following, or some of them: the grandfather, grandmother, father, mother, husband, wife, child, son-in-law or daughter-in-law of the deceased.

Note: See provisions of Section 76 of the Child Welfare Act, R.S.O. 1960 Chapter 53, "Child" is defined in Section 1 (d) of the Succession Duty Act.

Dependants' Allowance and Individual Dependant Allowance

The Succession Duty Act was amended in 1959 by the Succession Duty Amendment Act to bring into the Act exemptions in favour of the widow, dependant children and infirm husband of the deceased parallel to those in the new Dominion Estate Tax Act.

Section 2, subsection 1, of the Succession Duty Amendment Act, 1959 enacts a new subsection (1a) of Section 6 of the Succession Duty Act, now Section 7 (2) R.S.O. 1960 Chapter 386 Clause (a) of Section 7 (2) provides that no duty shall be levied on a dependant, when the total of the benefits to all dependants does not exceed the total of their individual exemptions. This total of individual exemptions has been defined as "Dependants' Allowance".

"Dependants' Allowance" means,

(i) where the deceased is survived by a wife and no dependent children, $60,000,

(ii) where the deceased is survived by a wife and a dependent child or children, an amount equal to the sum of $60,000 and $10,000 for each dependent child,

(iii) where the deceased is survived by an infirm husband and one dependent child, $70,000,

(iv) where the deceased is survived by an infirm husband and more than one dependent child, an amount to the sum of $60,000 and $10,000 for each dependent child, or

(v) where the deceased is not survived by a spouse but is survived by a dependent child or children, an amount equal to the product expressed in dollars of $15,000 and the number of dependent children.

The following are examples of the operation of this Clause:

1. A man dies leaving an estate of $80,000 survived by a widow and two dependent children. Here the dependants' allowance is $80,000 and no duty is payable, if the estate passes wholly to these dependents or any one of them.

1a. A man dies leaving an estate of $150,000 with a widow and two dependent children; he leaves $80,000 among these three dependents. Here no duty is payable on the benefits to the dependants but the rest of the estate passing to other persons is dutiable as at present.

1b. A man leaves an estate of $150,000 again with a widow and two dependent children to whom he leaves the whole estate. Here duty is payable on the whole estate as at the present time, unless Clause b of Section 7(2) applies.

2. A woman dies leaving an infirm husband and four dependent children. Her estate is $100,000. Here no duty is payable if the estate goes wholly to these dependents or to any one of them.

3. A man or woman dies leaving five dependent children, and no surviving spouse, leaving an estate of $75,000. Here no duty is payable if the estate is divided among these children or goes to any one of them.

Clause b of Section 7 (2) provides that where the benefit to a "dependant" does not exceed the amount of his "individual dependant allowance" no duty shall be payable by him.

The amounts of the "individual dependants' allowance" are:

(i) in the case of the wife of the deceased, $60,000,

(ii) in the case of the infirm husband of the deceased where the deceased is survived by a dependent child, $60,000,

(iii) in the case of a dependent child of the deceased where the deceased is survived by a wife or infirm husband, $10,000 or

(iv) in the case of a dependent child of the deceased where the deceased is not survived by a spouse, $15,000.

Individual Dependant Reduction and Increased Individual Dependant Reduction

The Succession Duty Act was amended by the Succession Duty Amendment Act, 1962-63 (which came into force on April 26th, 1963) to provide for a reduction in the duty otherwise payable by dependants. This was accomplished by the addition of a new subsection (2a) to section 7 of the Act.

"(2a) The duty levied on property passing on the death of the deceased to or for the benefit of a dependant and on him shall be reduced by an amount equal to the amount obtained by dividing the product of,

(a) the sum of the value of the property passing on the death of the deceased to him or for his benefit on which duty is levied and of the value of all transmissions to him and of the value of all dispositions in respect of which duty is levied on him; and by the sum of the value of all the property passing on the death of the deceased to him or for his benefit, and of the value of all dispositions to him that do not come within clause g of subsection 1 of section 5."

(b) the amount of his individual dependant reduction or of his increased individual dependant reduction, if the greater,

A definition of individual dependant reduction and increased individual dependant reduction was added to the Act by the inclusion of clauses (da) and (cb) to subsection 8 of section 7 of the Act.

"(da) 'individual dependant reduction' means, in the case of a dependant, the amount obtained by applying to the amount of his individual dependant allowance the rates applicable under subsection 1 to amounts equal to the amount of his individual dependant allowance and by adding to the amount so obtained 15 per cent thereof, provided that, where the dependant's individual dependant allowance is less than $50,000, the rate to be applied to his individual dependant allowance shall be 2.5 per cent."

The "individual dependant reduction" is as follows:

Widow—$3,174.

Infirm Husband where there is at least one dependant child—$3.174.
Dependant Child where there is also a widow or infirm husband—$287.50, and Dependant Orphaned Child—$431.25.

"Increased individual dependant reduction" is defined in clause (cb) as follows:

"(cb) 'increased individual dependant reduction', in the case of a dependant where the deceased is not survived by a wife, means the sum of,
(i) the amount of his individual dependant reduction, and
(ii) an amount equal to the amount obtained by dividing the product of,
A. the amount of the dependant's individual dependant allowance, and
B. the sum of the amounts of the individual dependant reduction of dependants in whose cases the sum of the value of the property passing on the death of the deceased to him or for his benefit, and of the value of all dispositions to him that do not come within clause g of subsection 1 of section 5, does not exceed the amount of his individual dependant allowance, by the sum of the amounts of the individual dependant allowance of all dependants, exclusive of dependants mentioned in subclause B."

The following are some examples of the application of the new provisions for the reduction in duty otherwise payable by dependants:

1. AGGREGATE VALUE: $75,000.
DISTRIBUTION: All to widow. No other dependants.
DUTY: $75,000 @ 5.5% = $4,125.00
15% Surtax = 618.75
$4,743.75

INDIVIDUAL DEPENDANT REDUCTION:
$60,000 @ 4.6% = $2,760
15% Surtax 414
$3,174

Widow's duty reduced under provisions of subsection (2a) of section 7 by individual dependant reduction.

$$\frac{75{,}000 \times 3{,}174}{75{,}000} = 3{,}174.$$

DUTY then $4,743.75—3,174 = $1,569.75.

2. AGGREGATE VALUE: $75,000.
DISTRIBUTION: All to widow. One dependent child who receives NIL.
DUTY as in 1. above = $4,743.75.
Reduction: Increased individual dependant reduction of wife is: $3,174 + 287.50 = $3,461.50.

Thus REDUCTION is: $\frac{75{,}000 \times 3{,}461.50}{75{,}000} = 3{,}461.50$

WIDOW'S DUTY: $4,743.75 — $3,461.50 = $1,282.25.

3. AGGREGATE VALUE: $100,000.
DISTRIBUTION: Widow—$70,000
One dependent child—$20,000
One dependent child—$10,000
DUTY RE WIFE: $70,000 @ 6.9% = $4,830.00
15% Surtax = 724.50
$5,554.50
REDUCTION: Widow's increased individual dependant reduction is $3,174 + 287.50 (individual dependant reduction of child who is not dutiable) = $3,461.50.

Widow's duty thus reduced by amount of:

$$\frac{$70{,}000 \times 3{,}461.50}{70{,}000} = $3{,}461.50$$

WIDOW'S DUTY: $5,554.50 . . 3,461.50 = $2,093

DUTY RE DEPENDENT CHILD:
$20,000 @ 5% = $1,000
15% Surtax = $ 150
$1,150

REDUCTION: Duty reduced by individual dependant reduction being an amount equal to $10,000 @ 2.5% = $250.00
+ 15% Surtax = 37.50
$287.50

DUTY THUS: $1,150 — $287.50 = $862.50.

It will be seen from the above examples that if there are assets passing to or for the benefit of a dependant or dispositions to him that do not come within the provisions of clause g of subsection 1 of section 5 upon or in respect of which no duty is leviable the individual and increased individual dependant reductions are reduced proportionately.

EXAMPLES: Reduction in case of Foreign Estates and Ontario Estates with Foreign Realty.

1. FOREIGN ESTATE:
AGGREGATE VALUE: $75,000
DISTRIBUTION: All to widow—no other dependants
ONTARIO ASSETS: $10,000
DUTY: $10,000 @ 5.5% = $550.00
Surtax 15% = $ 82.50
$632.50

INDIVIDUAL DEPENDANT REDUCTION:
$60,000 @ 4.6% = $2,760
Surtax 15% = 414
$3,174

WIDOW'S DUTY REDUCED under provisions of subsection 2a of section 7.

$$\frac{$10{,}000 \times $3{,}174}{$75{,}000} = $423.20$$

DUTY THEN: $632.50 — $423.20 = $209.30

2. ONTARIO ESTATE:
FOREIGN REALTY:
AGGREGATE VALUE: $100,000
DISTRIBUTION: Widow—$90,000
ONE DEPENDENT CHILD: $10,000
FOREIGN REALTY: $20,000 (to widow)
DUTY: Widow—$70,000 @ 7.3% = $5,110.00
Surtax 15% = $ 766.50
$5,876.50
Child —$10,000 @ nil nil
(amount to child does not exceed his individual dependant allowance.)

INCREASED INDIVIDUAL DEPENDANT REDUCTION OF WIFE: (Individual dependant reduction of wife and dependant reduction of dependent child.)
$3,174 + $287.50 = $3,461.50.

WIDOW'S DUTY REDUCED under provisions of subsection 2a of section 7 by increased individual dependant reduction.

$$\frac{$70{,}000 \times $3{,}461.50}{$90{,}000} = $2{,}692.27$$

DUTY THEN: $5,876.50 — $2,692.27 = $3,184.23.

An additional "notch" provision is contained in the Act to cover the exemptions in favour of the widow, dependent children, and infirm husband of the deceased.

The "notch" clause is to be applied only after the reduction provided for in subsection (2a) of section 7 has been made and provides that:

1. The amount of duty payable by a dependent at no time exceeds one-half of the amount by which the benefit to the dependent exceeds the individual dependent allowance.

2. The amount of duty payable by the dependents at no time exceeds one-half of the amount by which the benefits to the dependents exceed the dependents' allowance.

The Succession Duty Act was amended by the Succession Duty Amendment Act 1962-63 to provide for a 'notch' provision for collateral class beneficiaries. The 'notch' provision for collateral class beneficiaries where the aggregate value exceeds $10,000 but does not exceed $20,000 reduces the duty to one-half of the amount obtained by multiplying the amount passing to the beneficiary by the excess amount over $10,000 and dividing by the aggregate value. Where the aggregate value of the estate exceeds $20,000 there is an initial rate of duty and if a collateral beneficiary receives more than $10,000 an additional rate of duty as well. The 'notch' provision where the aggregate value exceeds $20,000 applies only to the initial rate of duty. There is no 'notch' provision for the additional duty. The 'notch' provision is applied to the basic duty only and the additional duty is then added to the reduced basic duty.

Note,—The phrases— "Amount passing to any one person", and "whole amount passing to one person", as used in above tables, include the value of the lifetime dispositions in favor of such person as well as the value of the property passing to him on the death of the deceased.

DESCENT AND DISTRIBUTION OF PROPERTY—ONTARIO

A CONDENSED SUMMARY OF THE LAW OF INTESTATES ESTATES

All real and personal property which is vested in any person without a right in any other person to take by survivorship shall, on his death, whether testate or intestate, and notwithstanding any testamentary disposition, devolve to and become vested in his personal representative from time to time as trustee for the persons by law beneficially entitled thereto and, subject to the payment of his debts, and so far as such property is not disposed of by deed, will, contract or other effectual disposition, the same shall be administered, dealt with and distributed as if it were personal property not so disposed of.

"A husband who, if The Devolution of Estates Act had not been passed, would be entitled to an interest as tenant by the curtesy in the real property of his wife, may, by deed or instrument in writing executed, and attested by at least one witness and delivered to the personal representative, if any, or if there is none, deposited in the office of the Registrar of the Supreme Court at Osgoode Hall, within six months after his wife's death, elect to take such interest in the real and personal property of his wife as he would have taken if the said Act had not been passed, in which case the husband's interest therein shall be ascertained in all respects as if the said Act had not been passed, and he shall be entitled to no further interest thereunder.

The real and personal property of every man dying intestate and leaving a widow whether or not he leaves issue shall, where the net value of such real and personal property does not exceed $20,000, belong to his widow absolutely and exclusively. The term "net value" means the value of the real and personal property after payment of the charges thereon and the debts, funeral expenses and expenses of administration, including succession duty.

Where the estate of the husband consists in whole or in part of real property, then notwithstanding anything set out above or anything hereinafter set out with respect to the benefits to the widow, such benefits shall not accrue to her and she shall only be entitled to her dower unless she elects to take her distributive share, as set out herein, in lieu of dower. The term "dower" means the right of the widow, for her life to one-third of the rents and profits from the real estate owned by her husband at his death.

By the provisions of The Devolution of Estates Amendment Act, 1952, the 1918 Enactment, as it stood in our present Devolution of Estates Act, (Chapter 106-R.S.O.-1960) was repealed and it was further provided that any real property which but for the provisions of the 1918 Enactment, would have vested in the persons beneficially entitled thereto, shall be deemed to have vested in such persons notwithstanding such provisions.

The Devolution of Estates Amendment Act, 1953, was passed so that an illegitimate child or the mother of an illegitimate child, under certain circumstances, shares in the estate.

Subject to what is set out above, the estate of a person dying intestate is distributed as set out below, according to the Devolution of Estates Act, being Chapter 106 of The Revised Statutes of Ontario, 1960. It will be noted that where the widow takes a share, the net value of the estate is presumed to be in excess of $20,000. Where there is no widow to take a share, the net value of the estate is immaterial.

DISTRIBUTION

If the Intestate die leaving,—

1. A widow only, the widow gets $20,000 plus interest thereon at 4% from date of death until payment and two-thirds of the residue. Remaining one-third of the residue equally to the next of kin of the deceased husband and those who legally represent them. For example, if the next of kin were a father, mother, brother and sister, or any of these and if there were children of a deceased brother or sister, the said one-third would be divided equally among all of these, save that the children aforesaid would take per stirpes and not per capita,—that is they would take equally the share which their father or mother would have taken had he or she survived the intestate. If there are no kindred to inherit, the said remaining one-third of residue would go to the Crown.

2. Widow and one child or legal representatives of child, $20,000 and interest as above and half residue to widow. The other half to child or equally among legal representatives.

3. Widow and children and legal representatives of deceased children—$20,000 and interest as above and one-third of residue to widow. The other two-thirds equally among the children and the legal representatives of deceased children, the latter taking per stirpes.

4. Widow and father or mother or brother or sister, $20,000 and interest as above and two-thirds of the residue to widow. The remaining one-third of residue to the father or mother or brother or sister.

If the intestate die leaving,—

1. A husband only,—Husband gets $20,000 plus interest thereon at 4% from date of death until payment and one-half of the residue. Remaining half among next of kin of deceased wife and those who legally represent them and in same proportions as mentioned in No. 1 above. If there are no kindred to inherit, the said remaining one-half would go to the Crown.

2. A husband and child or legal representatives of child,—Husband gets $20,000 plus interest thereon at 4% from date of death until payment and one-third of residue. The remaining two-thirds to child or equally among legal representatives.

3. A husband and children and legal representatives of deceased children,—Husband gets $20,000 plus interest thereon at 4% from date of death until payment and one-third of residue. The remaining two-thirds equally among the children and the legal representatives of deceased children,—the latter taking per stirpes.

4. Husband and father or mother or brother or sister,—Husband gets $20,000 plus interest thereon at 4% from date of death until payment and one-half of residue. The remaining half to the father or mother or brother or sister.

If the intestate die without leaving a spouse, but leaving,—

(a) a child or legal representatives of child,—all to child or equally among the legal representatives.

(b) Children and legal representatives of deceased children,—equally among all,—the legal representatives taking per stirpes.

(c) Children by two spouses,—equally among all.

(d) Child and grandchild of a deceased child,—half to child and half to grandchild who takes by representation.

If the intestate die without spouse or issue but leaving,—

(a) A father, mother, brother and sister or any of these and children of a deceased brother or sister,—equally among all,—the said children sharing per stirpes.

(b) A father or mother, or brother or sister,—all to the one who survives.

(c) A grandparent or grandparents,—all to him or her or equally among these.

(d) Brother or sister of the whole blood and brother or sister of the half blood, equally among the two.

(e) Posthumous brother or sister and mother, equally among the two.

THE QUEEN'S CIVIL LIST

Until George III. came to the throne in 1760, the income of the sovereign was derived chiefly from Crown lands and certain landed property. In the feudal ages these lands constituted a princely patrimony. In later times this Crown property was greatly reduced by lavish grants to royal favorites, so much so that at the accession of Queen Anne, Parliament endeavored to save the remnant by an Act (1 Anne, c. 8) which prohibited alienation of Crown lands, and enacted stringent provisions in regard to the length of the term for which they might be leased and the rents reserved.

Queen Anne, George I. and George II. derived the larger part of their income from their life-interest in the Crown property, but when George III. came to the throne he surrendered his life-interest in the Crown lands. It was turned over to the nation in return for a fixed Civil List of £800,000, subsequently increased to £900,000. George IV., William IV., Queen Victoria and Edward VII., on their accessions, surrendered their life interest in the Crown lands in return for a Civil List. The same course has been taken by each subsequent monarch on coming to the throne.

Certain hereditary revenues have also been surrendered to the Exchequer.

In 1910 the King's Civil List was fixed at the yearly sum of £470,000.

By the Civil List Act of 1937, the civil list for King George VI was fixed at £410,000 subject to certain abatements while the revenues of the Duchy of Cornwall were vested in His Majesty.

The Civil List Act, 1952, fixed the Civil list for Queen Elizabeth II at £475,000, allocated as follows:

|---|---|
| H. M. Privy Purse | £ 60,000 |
| Salaries of H. M. Household | 185,000 |
| Expenses of H. M. Household | 121,800 |
| Royal Bounty, alms and special services | 13,200 |
| Supplementary Provision | 95,000 |
| | £475,000 |

This sum is subject to a reduction equal to a proportion of the net revenues of the Duchy of Cornwall, so long as the Duke of Cornwall is a minor.

In addition to the Civil List as above, provision is made for other members of the Royal Family on a per annum basis as follows:—

Queen Elizabeth, the Queen Mother, £70,000
The Duke of Edinburgh, £40,000.
The Princess Margaret, £15,000.
The Duke of Gloucester, £35,000.
The Princess Royal, £6,000.

The revenue of the estates of the Duchy of Lancaster (which have been attached to the Crown since 1399), is paid over to the Keeper of Her Majesty's Privy Purse.

The first Secretary for Scotland was appointed in 1885 in recognition of the fact that Scotland required a separate system of administration from that of England and Wales. In 1926, the holder of the office of Secretary for Scotland was elevated to the rank of a principal Secretary of State.

The functions of the Secretary of State are discharged by four main administrative Departments of equal status, each under a Secretary responsible to the Secretary of State for the discharge of the duties of the Department. The day-to-day administration of the Departments is conducted in Edinburgh, but each Department has representatives in London for liaison and Parliamentary duties. This London Office is generally known as the Scottish Office, a term also used to describe the whole system of Scottish administration.

WORLD ORGANIZATIONS

THE UNITED NATIONS

The United Nations is a world organization for the maintenance of peace and security and for the promotion of the welfare of humanity. The Charter was signed on June 26, 1945 and came into force on October 24, 1945.

Through a series of conferences, at Dumbarton Oaks (August-October 1944), at Yalta (February 1945) and at San Francisco (April-June 1945), the Charter of the United Nations was produced.

The main organs of the United Nations are: the General Assembly, the Security Council, the Economic and Social Council, the Trusteeship Council, the International Court of Justice, the Secretariat. Subsidiary organs are established as and when required.

The General Assembly is the main deliherative organ of the United Nations; it has the right to discuss and make recommendations on all matters within the scope of the United Nations Charter and to discuss the powers and functions of other United Nations organs, which suhmit annual reports to it; and it considers and approves the budget for the entire Organization. All members—115, as of October 1965—are represented in the General Assembly. Each has one vote, and all votes are equal. Important questions—such as the maintenance of international peace and security, election of members to certain United Nations organs, membership in the United Nations, operation of the trusteeship system and hudgetary questions—are decided hy a two-thirds majority of the memhers present and voting; others, by a simple majority. The Assembly meets regularly once a year, hut special sessions may be held at the request of the Security Council or a majority of the members. The Assembly in November 1950 decided that if the Security Council, because of lack of unanimity of the permanent members, fails to exercise its primary responsibility for maintaining international peace and security in any case where there appears to he a threat to peace, breach of the peace, or act of aggression, the Assembly may consider the matter immediately, in emergency special session—on 24 hours notice if necessary—with a view to making recommendations to Members for collective measures, including, in the case of a breach of the peace or act of aggression, the use of armed force when necessary to restore peace. Two special sessions—on the question of Palestine—and four emergency special sessions—two on the Middle East, one on Hungary and one on the Congo—have been held. The Assembly deals with its work through seven Main Committees on which all Members have the right to he represented: First Committee (Political and Security, including the regulation of armaments); Special Political Committee; Second Committee (Economic and Financial); Third Committee (Social, Humanitarian, and Cultural); Fourth Committee (Trusteeship, including non-self-governing territories); Fifth Committee (Administrative and Budgetary); Sixth Committee (Legal). In addition, the UN Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East and the Office of the UN High Commissioner for Refugees, among other bodies, report to the General Assembly. The Assembly has also established procedural, standing and other ad hoc committees. Paul Treinhlay is Canada's permanent representative at United Nations headquarters in New York.

The Security Council is composed of five permanent members, China, France, the United Kingdom, the United States and the Soviet Union and six non-permanent members elected by the General Assembly for a term of two years. The principal function of the Security Council is to examine questions endangering the maintenance of international peace and security, and to adopt and apply means to solve dangerous international situations or disputes. Each member of the Security Council has one vote. Decisions on procedural matters are made hy an affirmative vote of seven members. On all other matters an affirmative vote of seven members, including the concurring votes of the five permanent members, is required (unless, in certain circumstances, a permanent member abstains from voting). Thus, the negative vote of one permanent memher is sufficient to prevent the taking of a substantive decision. This is the "veto" power.

The Charter provides that a Military Staff Committee, consisting of the Chiefs of Staff of the permanent members of the Security Council or their representativcs is to advise and assist the Security Council on all questions relating to the Council's military requirements for the maintenance of international peace and security, the regulation of armaments or possible disarmament.

On 11 January 1952 the General Assembly established the Disarmament Commission to replace the Atomic Energy Commission and the Commission for Conventional Armaments and to combine the work of both. The Disarmament Commission, since 1959 has been composed of all the members of the United Nations.

The Economic and Social Council is composed of representatives of eighteen Member States elected by the General Assembly for a term of three years. Its function is to study and report on social and economic problems throughout the world, and to suggest means for their solution. Its decisions are taken by a simple majority vote. It is authorized to enter into agreements with specialized agencies for the purpose of bringing them into relationship with the United Nations. Such agreements are subject to approval by the General Assembly and the appropriate body of the specialized agency concerned. Agreements with the following agencies are in force: International Labour Organization (ILO); Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations (FAO); United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization (UNESCO); World Health Organization (WHO) International Bank for Reconstruction and Development; International Development Association (IDA); International Finance Coporation (IFC); International Civil Aviation Organization (ICAO); International Monetary Fund; Universal Postal Union (UPU); International Telecommunication Union (ITU); World Meteorological Organization (WMO); and Inter-Governmental Maritime Consultative Organization (IMCO). An agreement has also been authorized with the International Trade Organization (ITO) if and when that hody comes into existence. Though establishment of ITO and the bringing into operation of the Havana Charter, on which it was to be hased, have not taken place, one of the main objectives of that Charter has been embodied in an international commercial treaty, known as the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (GATT). Provision has been made for the establishment of a permanent Organization for Trade Cooperation (OTC) to administer GATT.

An International Atomic Energy Agency, to promote the peaceful uses of atomic energy, was formally established in July 1957. The Agency's working relationship with the United Nations has been determined in an agreement approved by the UN General Assembly and the Agency's General Conference in the autumn of 1957. This agreement provides that the Agency shall report annually to the General Assembly, and in addition submit reports to the Security Council "when appropriate" and to the Economic and Social Council on matters within its competence.

The Economic and Social Council is aided in its work by several expert bodies, called commissions and suh-commissions, which keep international problems in their respective fields under review. These bodies cover such questions as statistical, human rights, social, population, status of women and narcotic drugs. The Council has also set up regional economic commissions for Europe, for Asia and the Far East, for Latin America, and for Africa. The United Nations Children's Fund (UNICEF) also reports to the Council.

The Trusteeship Council consists of Members of the United Nations administering territories under trusteeship, those permanent members of the Security Council which do not administer trust territories, and as many other Members elected by the General Assemhly for three-year terms as may be necessary to ensure that the total number of members in the Trusteeship Council is equally divided between those which administer trust territories and those which do not. Its decisions are taken by a simple majority vote.

The Trusteeship Council examines reports on Trust Territories annually submitted by the administering authorities; accepts petitions and examines them in consultation with the authorities; and provides for special or periodic visits to the Trust Territories.

The International Court of Justice is the principal judicial organ of the United Nations. It consists of fifteen judges elected for a term of nine years by the General Assembly and by the Security Council voting independently.

The Secretariat, under a Secretary-General appointed by the General Assembly upon the recommendation of the Security Council, serves the United Nations. It is organized into a number of administrative units. Four of these are known as Offices of the Secretary-General because the work they perform engages the Secretary-General's responsibility in a more direct and personal way. These are the Executive Office of the Secretary-General, the Office of Legal Affairs, the Controller's Office and the Office of Personnel. There are also two Under-Secretaries for Special Political Affairs. Three of the units are Departments. These are the Department of Political and Security Council Affairs, the Department of Economic and Social Affairs and the Department of Trusteeship and Non-Self-Governing Territories. In addition, there is an Office of Public Information, an Office of Conference Services and an Office of General Services. The United Nations Children's Fund (UNICEF), the Technical Assistance Board and the United Nations Special Fund also have their offices at headquarters. A new organ of the General Assembly is the United Nations Conference on Trade and Development. Its function is to help promote and better the conditions of international trade, particularly with a view to accelerating the economic growth of developing countries.

The headquarters of the United Nations is situated in New York, N.Y.

WESTERN EUROPEAN UNION

9 Grosvenor Place, London, S.W.1, England

The Brussels Treaty, signed in 1948 by Belgium, France, Luxembourg, the Netherlands and the United Kingdom, provided for collective self-defence and for collaboration in economic, social and cultural matters.

On October 23, 1954, the Treaty was amended to include the German Federal Republic and Italy, thus making it a more effective focus of European integration. This arrangement came into force on May 6, 1955, and the resulting organization was known as "Western European Union".

It consists of a Council, meeting either at Ministerial level or, more frequently, at Ambassadorial level at the seat of the Organization in London; of an Agency for the Control of Armaments, set up to ensure that the undertakings given by the German Federal Republic not to manufacture certain armaments are observed, and to control the level of armaments of all seven Member states on the mainland of Europe; of a Standing Armaments Committee which deals with the production and standardization of armaments. Until 1st June 1960 when they were transferred to the Council of Europe, the Organization included a number of social and cultural committees set up to further collaboration between the Seven on such questions. There is also a Western European Union Parliamentary Assembly, which usually meets twice a year, composed of delegated members from the parliaments of all seven countries.

International secretariats serve the Council of W.E.U., the Agency for the Control of Armaments, and the Standing Armaments Committee.

Secretary-General, M. Iweins d'Eeckhoutte.

Director of the Armaments Control Agency, General L. Lombardi.

Head of the International Secretariat of the Standing Armaments Committee, M. M. Roux.

QUALIFICATIONS FOR ELECTORS IN FEDERAL AND PROVINCIAL ELECTIONS

ELECTIONS FOR THE FEDERAL HOUSE OF COMMONS

According to the Canada Elections Act, and subject to certain exceptions, the general rule as to the qualifications of electors at a Federal election is that every person in Canada, man or woman, is qualified to vote and entitled to be registered as an elector on the list of electors for the polling division in which such person ordinarily resides at the time of the issuing of the writ ordering a Federal election in the electoral district if such person; except as hereinafter provided, every person in Canada, man or woman, is entitled to have his or her name included in the list of electors prepared for the polling division in which he or she was ordinarily resident on the date of the issue of the writ ordering an election in the electoral district, and is qualified to vote in such polling division, if he or she

(a) is of the full age of twenty-one years or will attain such age on or before polling day at such election;

(b) is a Canadian citizen or other British subject;

(c) in the case of a British subject other than a Canadian citizen, has been ordinarily resident in Canada for the twelve months immediately preceding polling day at such election; and

(d) at a by-election only, continues to be ordinarily resident in the electoral district until polling day at such by-election.

Among persons disqualified are prisoners, and persons under restraint owing to mental disease.

Whenever an election is ordered an entire new list of electors is prepared, according to the Canada Elections Act, under the general direction of the Chief Electoral Officer, and supervision of a returning officer who is appointed for each electoral district. There are two classes of polling divisions which are called Urban and Rural. Generally speaking urban polling divisions are those comprised in cities and towns of over 5,000 population, the other polling divisions are rural. In urban polling division, a pair of enumerators, representing different political interests, is appointed for each polling division. They make a house-to-house visitation immediately after the issue of the writ for the appropriate pending election, to secure the necessary information to complete a list of electors for their polling division. In rural polling divisions, the list is similarly prepared by one rural enumerator Writs for a Federal election are issued about two months before the date fixed for polling day, except at by-elections when such writs may be issued about 6 weeks before polling day.

Chief Electoral Officer, Nelson J. Castonguay, Ottawa.

THE VICTORIA CROSS

The Victoria Cross was instituted by Queen Victoria at the close of the Crimean campaign, 1856. It is a Maltese cross, made of gun metal, with a Royal Crest in the centre and underneath it an escroll bearing the inscription "For Valour", and is awarded, irrespective of rank, to members of any branch of Her Majesty's services, either in the Imperial Forces or those of any British dominion, colony, dependency or protectorate, the Mercantile Marine, nurses or staffs of hospitals, or to civilians of either sex while serving in either regular or temporary capacity during naval, military, or air force operations. It is awarded only "for most conspicuous bravery or some daring or pre-eminent act of valour or self-sacrifice or extreme devotion to duty in the presence of the enemy." For additional conduct of similar bravery, a Bar is added. The ribbon was formerly red for the Army and blue for the Navy, but is now crimson for all services. An annuity of £10 a year accompanies the decoration, plus £5 a year for every Bar granted; payable to ranks below commission ranks from the date of the act which concerns the award. Navy, Army and Royal Air Force regulations provide for the annuity to be increased to the maximum of £75, including any other pension from public funds where officers and other ranks are incapable of earning a livelihood by reason of age or infirmity occasioned by a cause outside the recipient's control. Since June 17th, 1943, the financial responsibility has been assumed by the Canadian Government, and the pound sterling is deemed to have a value of $5.00 in Canadian currency where this is concerned.

HONOURS (CANADA)

For some years after Confederation awards were made of a few hereditary honours and some knighthoods and companionships in orders of chivalry, and this policy continued until the end of the first Great War.

On May 22, 1919, during the premiership of the Rt. Hon. Robert L. Borden, a resolution adopted by the House of Commons requested His Majesty to refrain from granting titular honours to Canadian citizens in the future. This policy was reversed in 1933 when, during the premiership of the Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett, the Canadian Government recommended a number of such awards, which were duly granted on New Year's Day, 1934. Although titular honours were again conferred in 1935, the new administration which took office later that year under the premiership of the Rt. Hon. Mackenzie King revived the previous policy of the Government of 1919, and no titular honours have been recommended or awarded since that time.

On July 24, 1942, a Special Committee on Honours and Decorations reported to the House as follows: "As a result of their deliberations your Committee desire to make the following recommendations:

(1) That His Majesty's subjects domiciled or ordinarily resident in Canada be eligible for the award of Honours and Decorations, including awards in the Orders of Chivalry, which do not involve titles.

(2) That His Majesty's Government in Canada consider a submission to His Majesty the King, of proposals for the establishment of an Order limited in number but not involving a title, for which His Majesty's subjects domiciled or ordinarily resident in Canada shall alone be eligible."

During the second Great War a large number of decorations were awarded to members of the armed forces and to civilians for war service; in 1943 the Canada Medal was instituted but no awards were made. On July 1, 1946 the last Canadian honours list terminated decorations for war service for civilians. No awards in orders of chivalry have since been given to Canadian civilians. Recommendations are made from time to time for the award to civilians of decorations in recognition of exceptional bravery.

ESTIMATED POPULATION OF CANADA BY PROVINCES AT JUNE 1, 1965

The estimated population of Canada at June 1, 1965, was 19,571,000. This figure results from a population accounting which starts with the 1961 Census, adds births and immigration, and deducts deaths and an estimate of emigration based largely on United States and United Kingdom government statistics of immigration from Canada. For each province the same general method is used as for Canada. For purposes of estimating interprovincial migration, Family Allowances statistics are used.

The 1965 estimate is distributed by provinces as follows:

|---|---|
| Canada | 19,571,000 |
| Newfoundland | 498,000 |
| Prince Edward Island | 108,000 |
| Nova Scotia | 761,000 |
| New Brunswick | 623,000 |
| Québec | 5,657,000 |
| Ontario | 6,731,000 |
| Manitoba | 962,000 |
| Saskatchewan | 951,000 |
| Alberta | 1,451,000 |
| British Columbia | 1,789,000 |
| Yukon | 15,000 |
| Northwest Territories | 25,000 |

The arms are those of England, Scotland, Ireland and France, with a "difference" to mark them as Canadian, namely on the lower third of the shield, a sprig of maple on a silver shield. The crest is a lion holding in its paw a red maple leaf, a symbol of sacrifice. The supporters are, with some slight distinctions, the lion and unicorn of the Royal Arms; the lion upholds the Union Jack, and the unicorn the ancient banner of France.

The motto — A MAR USQUE AD MARE — "From sea to sea" — is an extract from the Latin version of verse 8 of the 72nd Psalm — "He shall have dominion also from sea to sea, and from the river unto the ends of the earth.'

PETITIONS TO THE HOUSE OF COMMONS

A petition to the House of Commons must be presented by a Member, and such Member shall be answerable that the petition does not contain "impertinent or improper matter". One person may petition the House of Commons. Petitions may be either written or printed. When there are three or more petitioners, the signatures of at least three shall be subscribed on the sheet containing the prayer of the petition.

Long usage both here and in the United Kingdom has sanctioned the rule that every petition should commence with the superscription "To the Honourable the House of Commons of Canada in Parliament assembled". Then should follow the formula "The Petition of the undersigned —— humbly sheweth". The subject matter of the petition then follows in the third person throughout and each paragraph should commence with the word "That".

The conclusion should be the "prayer", briefly and clearly expressing the particular object which the petitioners have in view in coming before Parliament. The petition should close with the formal words "And your petitioners, as in duty bound, will ever pray".

PARLIAMENTARY REPRESENTATION

The Parliament of Canada comprises the Senate, being the Upper House, and the House of Commons.

THE SENATE

Senators are appointed for life; must be Canadian citizens or British subjects and 30 years of age; must own lands worth net $4,000 in the province which they represent, and must be worth $4,000 above all debts. They must be residents of the province for which appointed or of the electoral division in the Province of Quebec.

The Speaker is appointed by the Governor-General.

The Senate as originally constituted at Confederation consisted of 72 members. Through the addition of new provinces and the general growth of Canada it now has 102 members, the latest change in representation having been made March 31, 1949, with the admission of Newfoundland to Confederation. By provinces, representation is as follows: Newfoundland 6, Prince Edward Island 4, Nova Scotia 10, New Brunswick 10, Quebec 24, Ontario 24, Manitoba 6, Saskatchewan 6, Alberta 6, British Columbia 6: total 102.

THE HOUSE OF COMMONS

The members of the House of Commons are elected by the people. The ordinary legal limit of duration for each Parliament is five years, sitting at least once a year. The Speaker is elected by the House.

By virtue of Section 51 of the British North America Acts, 1867 to 1952, and pursuant to rules laid down therein, a redistribution measure is enacted by Parliament after each decennial census to adjust the representation in the House of Commons.

The Representation Act, 1952, increased the membership in the House of Commons from 262 to 265, effective at the general election held August 10, 1953.

Accordingly representation in the House of Commons for the 26th Parliament is as follows: Alberta 17; British Columbia 22; Manitoba 14; New Brunswick 10; Newfoundland 7; Nova Scotia 12; Ontario 85; Prince Edward Island 4; Quebec 75; Saskatchewan 17; Northwest Territories 1; and the Yukon Territory 1; making a total of 265.

Indian Affairs Branch

The Indian Affairs Branch is responsible for administering the Indian Act, R.S.C. 1952, c. 149 as amended. Among its many important responsibilities are the social and economic development of the Indian population; Indian education; the management of Indian reserves and surrendered lands; the administration of Indian trust funds; Indian treaty obligations; and the administration of Indian estates. Increasingly, the Indian people themselves are assuming responsibility for the administration of their own affairs particularly with regard to band funds, Indian lands, welfare, local schools, and community services of various kinds.

Administration is carried out through a headquarters staff at Ottawa and 87 field administrative units, or Agencies, each Agency being responsible for one or more reserves and bands. The Agencies are grouped into nine Regions, each under the supervision of a Regional Director, except in the case of the British Columbia Region which is under the direction of an Indian Commissioner.

According to statistics compiled December 31, 1964, the Indian population was 211,389, the majority being located on some 2,267 reserves, including 74 Indian settlements, throughout Canada.

The Branch operates 342 day schools, 6 seasonal schools, 6 hospital schools and 52 residential schools and hostels, the latter being conducted in co-operation with various religious denominations interested in the education of Indians.

DEPARTMENT OF DEFENCE PRODUCTION

Under the provisions of the Defence Production Act (RSC 1952, c. 62, as amended), the Department of Defence Production has exclusive authority to procure the goods and services required by the Department of National Defence and the responsibility to ensure that the necessary productive capacity, capability, and materials are available to support the defence production program. The latter responsibility includes defence development and production sharing with the United States, defence production export activities with NATO and other friendly countries, and co-operation in research, development and production programs within the NATO alliance. The Department also provides management and staff for the Canadian Commercial Corporation, a Crown Company primarily responsible for the contracting in Canada for defence goods purchased by other governments and for contracting for supplies to meet Canadian requirements under External Aid programs and other international agreements. The Department is responsible for planning and making other necessary arrangements for the immediate establishment of a War Supplies Agency, should there be a nuclear attack.

A recent government decision directed that the recommendations of the Royal Commission on Government Organization relating to the formation of a Central Purchasing and Supply Agency be implemented. The responsibility for carrying out this decision was assigned to the Department of Defence Production.

Accordingly a plan of organization for a future Department of Supply has been prepared by the department. This plan requires the integration of the purchasing organization of Defence Production with supply functions. These supply functions were grouped with the regional purchasing function of Defence Production and Crown Assets Disposal Corporation to form the Canadian Government Supply Service.

Two other Crown Companies are associated with the Department of Defence Production, Canadian Arsenals Ltd. and Polymer Corporation Ltd.

DEPARTMENT OF NATIONAL REVENUE

From Confederation on July 1, 1867, until May 17, 1918, Customs and Inland Revenue Acts were administered by two separate government departments known as the Department of Customs, constituted by statute (31 Vic. Chap. 43), and the Department of Inland Revenue constituted by statute (31 Vic. Chap. 49). On May 18, 1918, by Order in Council these two Departments were amalgamated and combined under the name of the Department of Customs and Inland Revenue and under one Minister of the Crown.

On April 1, 1921, the name Inland Revenue was dropped and the Department of Customs and Excise constituted (11-12 Geo. V. 26).

The collection of Income Tax was placed under the control of the Minister of Customs and Excise on April 1, 1924, and by the Department of National Revenue Act (17 Geo. V. Chap. 34) the name was changed to the Department of National Revenue.

The Civil Service Commission was first established in 1908 under the provisions of the Civil Service Amendment Act, 1908 (S.C., 1907-08, Chapter 15) which introduced the principle of selection by order of merit as established by competitive examination. The Act did not, however, apply to positions outside of Ottawa. The Civil Service Act, 1918 (S.C., 1918, Chapter 12)—placed the entire service under the Commission. On April 1, 1962 a new Act came into force (S.C., 1960-61, Chapter 57) preserving the independence of the Commission and maintaining the fundamental principles of the merit system

The Civil Service Commission, which reports to Parliament consists of a Chairman and two additional members, appointed by the Governor in Council. A Commissioner holds office during good behaviour for a period of ten years from the date of appointment, and may be removed during that period only by the Governor in Council upon address of the Senate and the House of Commons. On the expiration of the first or a subsequent term of office a Commissioner may be reappointed for a further term of ten years. A Commissioner may not hold any other office in the Civil Service or engage in any other employment.

The general powers and duties of the Commission as laid down in the Civil Service Act are to: (a) appoint qualified persons to the civil service in accordance with the provisions and principles of the Act; (b) report to the Governor in Council upon such matters arising out of or relating to the administration or operation of the Act and the regulations as the Commission considers desirable and, at the request of the Governor in Council, report upon any matter pertaining to organization and employment in the public service; (c) at the request of a deputy head, report upon any matter pertaining to organization and employment in a department; (d) obtain the assistance of competent persons to assist the Commission in the performance of its duties; (e) operate and assist departments in operating staff development training programmes; and (f) perform such other duties and functions with reference to the public service as are assigned to it by the Governor in Council.

DEPARTMENT OF TRADE AND COMMERCE

The Department became operational on 3 December 1892. Its work today is predominantly export trade promotion, although it continues to perform certain functions in the domestic commerce field in the area of standards and measurement, and more recently has become responsible for tourism promotion.

In its export promotion work, it provides services to Canadian businessmen in three general areas; trade policy, commodities and industries and external trade promotion. Its Trade Policy Service works to obtain for Canadian exports the best possible terms of access to foreign markets. This Service also maintains, and supplies to Canadian firms upon request, detailed information about terms of access for Canadian goods in any market.

The principal concern of the Commodities and Industries Service is to find Canadian sources of supply to match foreign demand. Close liaison with Canadian companies is maintained to develop the information on materials, products and services for export which forms the basis of departmental trade promotional and trade supporting activities. Transportation as it affects foreign trade, export controls and regional offices of the Department are also concerns of this Service.

The External Trade Promotion Service carries out the Department's foreign trade operations outside of Canada, primarily through the medium of the Canadian Government Trade Commissioners. This same service includes the Canadian Government Travel Bureau, responsible for the promotion of travel to Canada by non-residents.

DOMINION BUREAU OF STATISTICS

The Dominion Bureau of Statistics was established by the Statistics Act (S.C., 1918, Chapter 43—replaced by the Statistics Act, R.S.C., 1952, Chapter 257, as amended) to act as the central statistical agency for Canada. The function of the Bureau is to compile, analyse and publish statistical information on the economic and social life of Canada and to conduct a census of population, housing, merchandising and agriculture of Canada at periodic intervals.

The Bureau is headed by the Dominion Statistician who is responsible for its policy and general direction. The Bureau is organized in eighteen functional divisions.

In addition to administering the functions of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, the Dominion Statistician has been charged with the responsibility for administering the Corporations and Labour Unions Returns Act, which was passed by Parliament in April, 1962, and came into force on January 1, 1963. The administration of this Act is quite separate from the operations of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics but is the responsibility of the Dominion Statistician. The purpose of the Act is to provide for the reporting of financial and other statistics relating to the affairs of corporations and labour unions carrying on activities in Canada in order to obtain a better understanding of the extent and effect of foreign ownership and affiliation on Canadian industry and labour unions.

FACTORS GOVERNING THE TRANSIT OF VESSELS THROUGH THE ST. LAWRENCE SEAWAY BETWEEN MONTREAL AND LAKE ONTARIO

Channel widths vary from a minimum of 175 feet between bridge abutments and 225 feet in canals flanked by two embankments, to 600 feet in improved channels.

Overhead structures in the Seaway Channel have a minimum vertical clearance of 120 feet at High Water.

MAXIMUM VESSEL DIMENSIONS

Length.....715 feet (on Restricted basis 730 feet)
Beam.....72 feet (on Restricted basis 75 feet)

Draught in completed sections of the channel: 25 feet at chart datum, or 2 feet less than the designed minimum channel depth of 27 feet.

The St. Lawrence Seaway Authorities will determine actual controlled depths, based on progress of channel improvements and the existing water level stage. These depths will be advertised periodically in Notices to Mariners.

INCOME TAXES

(Imposed by Federal Legislation)

The Government of Canada levies income taxes on corporations and individuals in accordance with The Income Tax Act as enacted by Chapter 148, Revised Statutes of Canada 1952, as amended.

CORPORATIONS

Rates of tax applicable to taxable income for the year 1965 are as follows:

18% on the first $35,000 of taxable income.
47% on taxable income in excess of $35,000.

Plus Old Age Security Tax of 3% of taxable income.

Where a corporation has taxable income earned in the provinces of Canada in a taxation year an abatement in respect of provincial taxes of federal taxes exclusive of Old Age Security Tax and before deduction therefrom of any amount in respect of foreign taxes and provincial logging taxes is authorized. The amount of this tax abatement for 1965 is equal to 10% of the corporation's taxable income earned in the year in a "prescribed province", such a province being one as defined in the Federal-Provincial Fiscal Arrangements Act, and the amount is equal to 9% of the corporation's taxable income earned in the year in a province other than a "prescribed province", such income in either case being determined in accordance with federal regulations."

Deductions—

Deductions which are allowed under certain circumstances in the determination of the taxable income of a corporation include:

Business losses incurred by the corporation in the five previous years and in the immediately following year.

Charitable donations up to 10% of income.

Dividends received from taxable Canadian corporations.

INDIVIDUALS

| 400,000 | 269,070 | plus 80% on remainder | |

The tax calculated by applying the above table and reduced by an amount equal to 20% of the dividends (less appropriate charges) received from taxable Canadian corporations, is known as "basic tax".

The "basic tax" may be reduced by the following abatements or deductions, where applicable, in arriving at an individual's Federal Income Tax.

Abatement for Provincial Taxes:

Where an individual is subject to tax under provincial legislation and resided in a province on the last day of a year (or at date of death or date of departure from Canada) and had no income earned in the year outside a province the amount of the "abatement for provincial taxes" in 1965 is 21% of "basic tax" in respect of income earned in all provinces except Quebec and 44% of "basic tax" in respect of income earned in Quebec. Where the individual is subject to tax under provincial legislation and resided in a province on the last day of the year and had income earned in the year outside a province or if the individual did not reside in a province on the last day of the year but had income earned in the year in a province the amount of the deduction is an amount that bears the same relation to the "abatement for provincial taxes" that his income earned in the year in a province bears to his income for the year.

General Abatement:

All individuals may claim an abatement for 1965 of the lesser of 5% of the "basic tax" or $300.

Other Deductions:

Under certain circumstances an individual may be entitled to a deduction from tax in respect of payments he has made for foreign taxes or provincial logging taxes.

Individuals are also subject to an old age security tax of the lesser of 4% of their taxable income or $120.

Personal Exemptions

$2,000 for married status.
$1,000 for single status.
$300 for each dependent eligible for family allowance
$550 for each dependent not eligible for family allowance.
$500 additional if taxpayer has attained age of 65 before year end.
$500 additional if taxpayer is totally blind or confined throughout the taxation year to a bed or wheelchair and does not include the amount of remuneration for an attendant or care in a nursing home in calculating a deduction for medical expenses.

Other Deductions

Other deductions which are allowed under certain circumstances in determination of taxable income include:

Charitable donations up to 10% of net income.
Medical expenses in excess of 3% of net income with exception of those for which taxpayer is reimbursed under Hospital Insurance and Diagnostic Services Act.

In lieu of the two types of deductions set out above, an individual may deduct a round amount of $100.

Union and professional membership dues.

Students may deduct certain tuition fees.

Contributions under a registered Retirement Savings Plan up to the lesser of $1,500 or 10% of earned income of the annuitant for the year, excepting where he is also covered by a registered Pension Plan, in which case the deduction for the combined contributions must not exceed the lesser of $1,500 or 10% of earned income.

Business losses incurred by an individual in the five previous years and in the immediately following year.

PAYMENT

Corporations—

In the twelve-month period ending four months after the close of its fiscal year every corporation shall pay its estimated tax in the following manner. On or before the last day of each of the first ten months of that period, one-twelfth of the estimated tax. On or before the last day of the eleventh month of that period, one-half of the remainder and on or before the last day of that period, the balance of the estimated tax.

Every corporation must file a return within six months of the end of its fiscal year.

Individuals—

Tax deductions made by employer from salaries or wages—otherwise quarterly payments based upon estimated tax. Tax return must be filed by April 30 of the year following.

Limitations of space prevent complete reproduction of The Income Tax Act, which contains numerous exceptions and limitations to the content outlined above. It is, therefore, recommended that the reader refer to the Act in specific cases. Copies of the Act may be obtained from the Queen's Printer, Department of Public Printing and Stationery, Ottawa.

INCOME TAXES
(Imposed by Provincial Legislation)

All provinces of Canada (exclusive of the North West Territories and the Yukon) levy taxes on income of both corporations and individuals. With the exception of the taxes levied by the Province of Quebec and the tax levied by the Province of Ontario on corporations all taxes levied by the several provinces on income are collected for them by the Government of Canada under the terms of collection agreements entered into between it and the several provinces.

CORPORATIONS

In all provinces other than Ontario and Quebec the tax is levied on corporations having a permanent establishment in the province at any time in the year at a rate applied to taxable income earned in the province in the year computed in accordance with federal regulations. The 1964 rate for Saskatchewan and Manitoba is 10% and for other provinces, exclusive of Ontario and Quebec, is 9%.

In Ontario tax is levied on corporations in accordance with the provisions of The Corporations Tax Act, Revised Statutes of Ontario, 1960, c.73 and amendments. In Quebec tax is levied on corporations in accordance with the provisions of the Corporation Tax Act, Statutes of the Province of Quebec, 1947, c.33 and amendments. Reference should be made to these statutes for details.

INDIVIDUALS

In all provinces a tax is levied on individuals who resided in the province on the last day of the year (or on date of death or date of departure from Canada) and on individuals who were not resident in the province on the last day of the year (or on date of death or date of departure from Canada) but had income earned in the province during the year. Income earned in the province during the year is determined under federal regulations. Where the individual resided in the province on the last day of the year (or on date of death or date of departure from Canada) and had no income earned in the taxation year outside the province the tax is computed as a percentage of the federal tax exclusive of Old Age Security Tax and before any deduction therefrom in respect of foreign taxes, and provincial logging taxes. The 1964 percentage in Manitoba and Saskatchewan is 24% and for other provinces exclusive of Quebec is 18%. Where the individual resided in a province on the last day of the taxation year (or on date of death or date of departure from Canada) but had income earned in the year outside a province or where the individual did not reside in a province on the last day of the year (or on date of death or date of departure from Canada) but had income earned in the year in a province the tax is the amount that bears the same relation to the percentage of the federal tax, exclusive of Old Age Security Tax and before any deduction therefrom in respect of foreign taxes and provincial logging taxes, that his income earned in the year in the province bears to his income for the year.

For particulars of the tax rate in Quebec reference should be made to the Provincial Income Tax Act, Statutes of Quebec 1953-54, c. 17 and amendments thereto.

ROYAL CANADIAN MOUNTED POLICE

Honorary Commissioner, HER MAJESTY QUEEN ELIZABETH II

In 1873 the North West Mounted Police was constituted (36 Vic. Chap. 35) to provide Police protection in the unsettled portions of the North West. In 1904 the title "Royal" was given to the Force. In 1920 the Dominion Police was amalgamated with this Force and the name changed to "Royal Canadian Mounted Police." The headquarters was moved from Regina to Ottawa and the Force may now be called upon to perform duties in any portion of the Dominion. In 1928 the Royal Canadian Mounted Police absorbed the Saskatchewan Provincial Police and in 1932 the Provincial Police Forces of Alberta, Manitoba, New Brunswick, Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island were absorbed in like manner. During the year 1932, the Force also assumed the administration of the Preventive Service Branch of the Department of National Revenue. On August 1, 1950, the duties of the Newfoundland Rangers and certain members of the Newfoundland Constabulary were taken over by the R.C.M.P., and on the 15th of the same month the British Columbia Provincial Police were similarly absorbed. These arrangements were made by agreements between the respective Provincial Governments concerned and the Federal Government. The term of engagement in the Royal Canadian Mounted Police is five years. Recruits are trained at Regina, Saskatchewan and Rockcliffe (near Ottawa), Ontario. At a recent date the Force had 231 horses, 22 Police Service Dogs, 258 sleigh dogs, 1,850 cars, 197 trucks, 27 motorcycles, 20 aircraft, and 61 ships and boats. The strength including regular members, civilian members, Civil Servants, and civilian employees was 9,191.

THE ROYAL CANADIAN NAVY

Role ann Organization

The primary role of the Royal Canadian Navy is anti-suhmarine warfare. Because of the prospect of long-range suhmarines capahle of launching nuclear missiles hundreds of miles off-shore against coastal and inland targets, the RCN has placed primary emphasis on the development of operational systems and new techniques, the aim heing to locate and deal with hostile suhmarines at a distanee.

The Royal Canadian Navy comes under the central authority of the Chief of the Defence Staff in Ottawa. The Flag Officer, Atlantic Coast, at Halifax, N.S., and the Flag Officer, Pacific Coast, at Esquimalt, B.C., exercise operational and administrative command of ships and establishments within the Atlantic and Pacific Coast Commands. The Flag Officers in the Atlantic and Pacific Commands also hold the additional appointments of Maritime Commander Atlantic and Maritime Commander Pacific respectively. As such, each is responsible for anti-suhmarine operations involving RCN and RCAF forces in his command. The recruiting and training of officers and men of the Royal Canadian Naval Reserve is conducted mainly through Naval Divisions across Canada under the overall eommand of the Commanding Officer, Naval Divisions, with Headquarters at Hamilton, Ont. There are naval missions in London, England, and Washington, U.S.A., to maintain liaison with the Royal Navy and the United States Navy. As a result of Canada's NATO commitments, officers of the Royal Canadian Navy serve on the Staffs of: the Supreme Allied Commander, Atlantic, at Norfolk, Va., in the United States; the Commander-in-Chief, Eastern Atlantic Area, at Northwood in the United Kingdom; and the Commander-in-Chief, Western Atlantic Area, at Norfolk, Va. The Flag Officer, Atlantic Coast, holds the appointment of Commander, Canadian Atlantic Sub-Area.

The strength of the RCN as of August 31, 1965, was 19,301 officers and men in the Regular Force and 2,305 in the Reserve.

Operations at Sea, 1964-1965: In Septemher 1965 the Royal Canadian Navy had 42 ships in commission and two suhmarines of the Royal Navy under R.C.N. operational eontrol at Halifax. During the year up to this date some of the older escorts were disposed of and two new H.M.C. Ships and one Naval Auxiliary joined the Fleet. These were HMCS ANNAPOLIS, last of the new destroyer escorts to he huilt, which commissioned at Halifax on 19 Dec. 64 and HMCS OJIBWA, the first of the three 'O' Class conventional submarines heing huilt for the Royal Canadian Navy at Chatham, England. The OJIBWA commissioned on 23 Sep. 65 and two days later the second 'O' Class submarine, ONONDAGA, was launched, while the third, OKANAGAN, was laid down in March 65. ONONDAGA is due to complete in 1967 and OKANAGAN in 1968. The third ship to join the Fleet in the year under review was the Canadian Naval Auxiliary Vessel ENDEAVOUR, an oceanographic research ship of 1540 tons huilt at Esquimalt, B.C., for service on the Pacific Coast. Under construction now, hesides the suhmarines, is the fast hydrofoil craft, FHE 400, and a second research vessel for service on the East Coast is due to he laid down shortly.

Five St Laurent class destroyer escorts have heen converted to operate helieopters and the two remaining ones, MARGAREE and FRASER, are presently heing converted. MARGAREE is due to eomplete in Oetoher. Also undergoing a major modernisation at present is TERRA NOVA, and the six other ships of her class will follow her. The numher of CHSS-2 Sea King helicopters to he delivered to the Fleet to operate from the aircraft carrier BONAVENTURE and the helicopter-equipped destroyer-escorts has now reached 13 and more will he delivered in the next year.

The operational support ship HMCS PROVIDER completed her first year with the Fleet and two more ships of the same type are projected.

The ships disposed of during the year were all old destroyer escorts or ocean escorts, namely BUCKINGHAM, CAP DE LA MADELEINE, FORT ERIE, INCH ARRAN, IROQUOIS, LA HULLOISE, LANARK and OUTREMONT.

Integregation of the forces has eontinued at Canadian Forces Headquarters at Ottawa. With the recent announcement of the imminent introduction of six functional commands—Mobile Command, Maritime Command, Training Command, Air Defence Command, Material Command and Transport Command, in place of the seperate Navy, Army and Air Force Commands, it is now heing taken a step further. Major changes in eommand organisation can therefore he expected in the near future.

The Royal Canadian Sea Cadets

The Navy League of Canada, comprising 14 autonomous divisions under the National Council, sponsors the RCSCC, with the RCN heing responsible for training, administration, and the furnishing of uniforms and equipment. There are 169 authorized corps in Canada, divided into seven Sea Cadet areas, supervised by 15 naval offieers, responsible to the Commanding Offieer, Naval Divisions at Hamilton, Ont. In Aug. 1965 there were 10,171 Sea Cadets in Canada.

THE CANADIAN ARMY

ORGANIZATION

The Canadian Army is under the central authority of the Chief of the Defence Staff and is controlled and administered by Canadian Forces Headquarters in Ottawa. Within Canada, the Army is controlled by four Commands and twelve subordinate Areas, each with its own headquarters.

The Canadian Army comprises the Canadian Army (Regular) and the Reserves. The Canadian Army (Regular) consists of four Infantry Brigade Groups and those units required for command and control, training, administration and logistic support.

The Reserves include the Canadian Army (Militia), the Regular Reserve, the Supplementary Reserve, the Canadian Officers' Training Corps, the Cadet Services of Canada and the Reserve Militia.

The strength of the Canadian Army (Regular), was 44,906 officers and men as of Aug. 31st, 1965 and the strength of the Canadian Army (Militia) was 32,026 as of 31st July 1965.

OPERATIONS

In fulfilment of our military obligation under the North Atlantic Treaty, Canada has continued to provide ground forces, one Infantry Brigade Group, for the defence of Western Europe. The Headquarters for the Brigade Group is at Soest.

Canadian membership in the International Supervisory Commissions of Viet Nam, Laos and Cambodia resulted in the Canadian Army providing 75 officers and men for Truce Supervisory duties.

The Canadian Army provides 9 officers to the United Nations Military Observer Group in India and Pakistan and 20 officers to the United Nations Truce Supervision Organization in Palestine as well as contingents totalling 1971 officers and men to the United Nations Emergency Force in Egypt and the United Nations Force in Cyprus. In addition plans are in being to be able to provide additional forces for service under or in support of the United Nations.

Canada, at the request of the Government of Ghana, has provided an Armed Forces Training Team in Ghana. The Canadian Army contributes 22 officers and men. In Canada, officers and officer cadets from Nigeria, Jamaica, Tanzania (Tanganyika and Zanzibar), and Zambia (Northern Rhodesia) are undergoing training in Canadian Army schools.

The Canadian Army is responsible for the conduct of those aspects of National Survival and Civil Defence operations which were assigned to the Department of National Defence by the Civil Defence Order, PC1959/656 as amended by PC 1963/993.

EQUIPMENT

The Canadian Army Equipment Development Program continues to concentrate on those fields particularly suited to Canadian capabilities and in which there are special Canadian needs. Canadian Army participation in materiel and non-materiel standardization programs with the United States, the United Kingdom, Australia and NATO continues. Additional agreements reached with allied armies affecting procedures and equipment enhanced their capability for cooperative operations.

The M113 Armoured Personnel Carrier is being introduced into service to provide the mobility required of modern land combat forces. Both light and heavy helicopters together with various types of fixed wing "conventional" aircraft continue to be procured in order to provide a better operational and training capability.

TRAINING

The policy of training is determined at Canadian Forces Headquarters, General Officers Commanding Commands implement the training policy within their Commands, except for that conducted at Army and Corps schools, which are under the direct supervision of Canadian Forces Headquarters.

French- and English-language training is available to all ranks of the Canadian Army and is conducted by Commands and CFHQ.

Trade and specialty training is given at corps schools and units. Where feasible, the facilities of civilian schools are used to supplement training at Army establishments.

THE MILITIA

Members of the Militia may be paid for at least 40 days training and for key Militia personnel up to 45 or 50 days. An individual may, as a special case, earn up to 70 days pay on the authority of the General Officer Commanding. This includes 7 days continuous training for selected personnel by attachment of Regular Army Field Units during the summer or to Regular Army Static Units at any time of the year, and attendance at summer camps.

THE REGULAR OFFICER TRAINING PLAN (ROTP)

The Regular Officer Training Plan is in effect at the three Canadian Services Colleges and at all Canadian universities and affiliated colleges which have contingents of the COTC. Training consists of academic and military studies, drill and physical training during the academic year; the summer term is devoted to practical training at military establishments.

THE CANADIAN OFFICERS TRAINING CORPS (COTC)

In addition to the Regular Officer Training Plan, units of the Canadian Officers Training corps are maintained at Canadian universities to produce officers for the reserve components of the Army. University graduates who have been members of the Canadian Officers Training Corps are also eligible for commissions in the Canadian Army (Regular). Members of the COTC undertake the first and second phases of training of the ROTP three phase programme.

ROYAL CANADIAN ARMY CADETS

Colonel-in-Chief: The Prince Philip, Duke of Edinburgh

Address—Canadian Forces Headquarters, Deputy Chief (Reserve) Ottawa.

The Army Cadet organization stems from the "Drill Associations" formed in Colleges and Schools during and after the American Civil War, 1861-1866. The first cadet corps, as such, date from the year 1879.

In 1942, the Department of National Defence expanded the Army Cadet organization, regularized the training, clothing and equipment. Officers of the Cadet Service of Canada, a sub-component of the Army Reserve with an establishment of 2,900, have, with assistance from the Canadian Army (Regular) the responsibility for the training and administration of Army Cadets.

In 1956 the establishment for Army Cadets was raised to 75,000.

The strength of the Royal Canadian Army Cadets as of June 30, 1965 was 66,614 enrolled in 503 cadet corps.

Cadet summer camps are located at Aldershot, N.S., Farnham, P.Q., Borden, Ont., Ipperwash, Ont., Clear Lake, Man., Rivers, Man., Banff, Alta., and Vernon, B.C.

THE ROYAL CANADIAN AIR FORCE

The Royal Canadian Air Force officially sets April 1, 1924, as its birthday. The foundations were laid during the First World War when nearly 22,000 Canadians flew as members of the British Air Forces.

The Royal Canadian Air Force comes under the central authority of the Chief of the Defence Staff and is administered by Canadian Forces Headquarters at Ottawa through the following major formations: Air Defence Command, St. Hubert, P.Q.; 1 Air Division, Metz, France; Materiel Command, Rockcliffe, Ont.; Maritime Command, Halifax, N.S.; Air Transport Command, Trenton, Ont.; Training Command, Winnipeg, Man.

The role of the R.C.A.F. is to provide operational forces for:

(a) A contribution to the air defence of North America as specified by the NORAD agreements.
(b) A contribution to the maritime defence of North America in conjunction with the RCN and United States forces as specified by NATO and Canada-U.S. agreements.
(c) An air component to the NATO forces in Europe.
(d) Airlift and support operations for the armed forces in Canada and overseas.
(e) Air search and rescue and co-ordination of marine search and rescue in Canada and approaches thereto.
(f) A contribution to National Survival Operations.
(g) United Nations military operations, as agreed in each instance by the Government of Canada.

The organization includes 20 flying squadrons of the RCAF Regular and 6 flying squadrons of the Reserve. The Reserve squadrons are assigned a light transport and emergency and rescue role. Three of the Regular squadrons contribute to the air defence of North America as a component of NORAD; 8 squadrons are assigned to the NATO air forces of Western Europe; 4 squadrons are required for RCAF transport operations at home and abroad: 4 maritime squadrons operate in conjunction with the RCN and US forces as a contribution to the maritime defence of North America and one tactical transport support and reconnaissance squadron operates as required in Canada.

The strength of the Royal Canadian Air Force on August 31, 1965 was 46,617 officers and men in the Regular Force and 825 in the Auxiliary Air Force.

Air Defence Command is now operating radar systems as an integral part of North American Air Defence Command (NORAD). These systems are the Distant Early Warning Line (DEW); and the Pinetree Line.

RCAF Reserve—The active sub-components of the RCAF reserves are designated as the Auxiliary and the Primary Reserve.

There are six Auxiliary Flying Squadrons. The squadrons are maintained to train a reserve of aircrew and operate in an emergency transport role.

ROYAL CANADIAN AIR CADETS

Air Cadet activities in Canada are sponsored and administered by the Air Cadet League of Canada. The League is a voluntary civilian organization created solely for this purpose and was formed in 1940 to provide preliminary aviation training for potential members of the Royal Canadian Air Force. In peacetime the object of Air Cadet training is to produce better citizens through air-age education. The Royal Canadian Air Force works jointly with the League and provides training personnel, syllabi and equipment.

During the war, the Royal Canadian Air Cadets reached a peak enrolment of 30,000. The authorized peacetime strength ceiling is 28,000 and the strength as of 31 January 1965 was approximately 26,000 enrolled in 365 squadrons across Canada. Air Cadet Training is carried out in more than 250 communities, both large and small, from Newfoundland to British Columbia.

THE CANADIAN SERVICES COLLEGES

(For staff lists, see Index)

Royal Military College of Canada, Kingston, Ont.

Royal Roads, Victoria, B.C.

Collège Militaire Royal de Saint-Jean, Saint-Jean, Que.

The Royal Military College of Canada was founded in 1876 at Kingston, Ont. Royal Roads was established in 1941 near Victoria, B.C., as a school for naval officers. In September, 1948, both Colleges were constituted as the Canadian Services Colleges to provide a joint educational and training program for the three Armed Forces of Canada. Collège militaire royal de Saint-Jean was opened in 1952 at Saint-Jean, Quebec, as the third member of the Canadian Services Colleges.

The role of the Canadian Services Colleges is to provide education and Service training for officer cadets to fit them to become commissioned officers, after graduation, in the Regular Forces of the Royal Canadian Navy, Canadian Army or the Royal Canadian Air Force. Courses of instruction are designed to develop character, to provide a balanced and liberal education leading to degrees in Arts, Science and Engineering which can be granted by the Royal Military College of Canada, and to provide a broad basic military education. The tri-service program at Royal Military College, Royal Roads and Collège militaire royal de Saint-Jean recognizes the fundamental qualities common to the training of officers whether for the Navy, Army, or Air Force, and thereby, seeks to weld a common understanding in matters of National defence.

On entry into one of the Canadian Services Colleges applicants are enrolled as Regular Force Subordinate Officers in the service of their selection. Provision is made for the entry of a limited number of:

(a) Dominion cadets—the sons of persons who were killed, died or are severely incapacitated as a result of service in a component of the Canadian Forces or the Canadian Merchant Marine during hostilities. Dominion cadets enter the Reserve Force of the Service of their choice and receive free tuition during the first academic year at a Service College.
(b) Reserve Cadets who pay tuition and other fees during the duration of the course. These cadets enter the Reserve Force of the Service of their choice.

On graduation from the Royal Military College of Canada subordinate officers are promoted to commissioned rank.

Educational requirements are senior matriculation for admission to the first year at the Royal Military College of Canada and Royal Roads, and junior matriculation for entry to the preparatory year at College militaire royal de Saint-Jean.

Candidates must have reached their 16th, but not their 21st, birthday on the first day of January preceding entrance with the exception of junior matriculation candidates for Collège militaire royal de Saint-Jean who must have reached their 16th but not their 20th, birthday on the first day of January preceding entrance.

THE DEFENCE RESEARCH BOARD

The Defence Research Board is the agency in the Department of National Defence responsible for scientific research. It was created in 1947 by an amendment to the National Defence Act. It provides through the Chairman scientific advice to the Minister and Associate Minister of National Defence and to the Canadian Forces.

The Board consists of a full-time Chairman and Vice-Chairman, four ex-officio members and a varying number of members selected from universities and industry appointed by the Governor-in-Council. The ex-officio members are the Deputy Minister of the Department of National Defence, the President of the National Research Council, the Vice Chief of the Defence Staff and the Chief of Logistics Engineering and Development. The Chairman is the chief executive officer of the Board's research organization. He is a member of the Defence Council, which is the senior policy body of the Department of National Defence.

The research organization consists of eight research establishments in which an intra-mural programme of research specifically oriented toward military needs is carried out.

The Board also conducts an extra-mural research programme through grants-in-aid of research to universities. These investigations are usually basic in nature and seek to provide new knowledge in fields from which important military developments are likely to arise.

Support is also provided to industry with the object of promoting and strengthening the research capability of Canada's defence industry. This is a programme of applied research of defence interest. It is financed on a cost-sharing basis with industry with each, government and industry, providing fifty percent of the funds.

International collaboration by the Defence Research Board in defence science is active throughout the western world. A very active tripartite organization with Britain and the U.S. has been built up to ensure the fullest utilization of defence scientific knowledge, resources and facilities of these countries. In addition bilateral agreements with several NATO nations serve to enhance the interchange of defence scientific and technical knowledge in areas of mutuaf interest.

The Board represents Canada on a number ol specialist committees through which NATO'S scientific endeavours are progressed and coordinated. The Board also provides representation on the Commonwealth Defence Science Organization which fosters and promotes scientific exchanges between the countries of the Commonwealth.

CANADIAN FLAGS AND BADGES

FLAG OF GOVERNOR GENERAL

In 1930 King George V approved the design of a Flag for the Governor General of Canada that would be symbolic of the position of the Governor General as the Sovereign's personal representative. The Flag so approved is of the following description:

"On a blue field, the Royal Crest,—the Imperial Crown proper, thereon a lion statant-guardant or, "crowned proper—subscribed 'CANADA' in black on a yellow scroll."

THE NATIONAL FLAG

The National Flag of Canada, otherwise known as the Canadian Flag, was approved by Parliament and proclaimed by Her Majesty the Queen on February 15, 1965, and is described as a red flag of the proportions two by length and one by width, containing in its centre a white square the width of the flag, bearing a single red maple leaf.

The Flag is flown on land daily from sunrise to unset at all federal government buildings, airports, and military bases and establishments within and outside Canada, and may appropriately bc flown or displayed by individuals and organizations.

The Canada Shipping Act provides that the National Flag is the proper national colours for all Canadian ships and boats; and it is the flag flown on Canadian Naval vessels.

THE ROYAL UNION FLAG

The Royal Union Flag, generally known as the Union Jack, was approved by Parliament on December 18, 1964 for continued use in Canada as a symbol of Canada's membership in the Commonwealth of Nations and of her allegiance to the Crown. It will, where physical arrangements make it possible, be flown along with the National Flag at federal buildings, airports, and military bases and establishments within Canada on the date of the official observance of the Queen's birthday, the Anniversary of the Statute of Westminster (December 11th), and on the occasions of Royal Visits and certain Commonwealth gatherings in Canada.

BADGE OF THE ROYAL CANADIAN NAVY

The badge was originally approved by His Majesty The King in April 1945 with nine maple leaves. It was revised to include ten maple leaves and signed by Her Majesty The Queen in July 1952. The St. Edward's Crown was introduced in place of the Tudor Crown, by Royal approval, in March 1956.

The present badge may be described as follows:

"Within a garland of ten maple leaves Gold, a cartouche Azure edged Or charged with a foul anchor of the first, the whole ensigned with a Royal Crown proper."

THE CANADIAN ARMY BADGE

The badge was approved by His Majesty The King in 1947 and revised to introduce St. Edward's Crown in 1954. It is for use by the Army as a whole on stationery, publications, and similar authorized use. The badge may be described as follows:

Three hard maple leaves conjoined on one stem upon two crossed Crusader's swords points upwards, the whole ensigned by the Imperial Crown. (The maple leaves are red, the swords are natural colours, i.e. blades blue with guards and pommels in gold and the Crown is in its natural colours).

THE ROYAL CANADIAN AIR FORCE GENERAL BADGE

The RCAF General Badge was sanctioned by His Majesty The King in January 1943 and now includes the St. Edward's Crown in place of the Tudor Crown used prior to December 1952. The description follows:

"In front of a circle inscribed with the motto PER ARDUA AD ASTRA and ensigned with the Imperial Crown, an eagle volant affronte the head to the sinister. Beneath the whole upon a scroll the words 'ROYAL CANADIAN AIR FORCE.' (The centre roundel is light blue. The circle and scroll are dark blue with the reverse of the scroll red. The words, the edge of the circle and scroll and the eagle are gold. The crown is in its natural colours).

NOVA SCOTIA FLAG

The official flag of the province of Nova Scotia is the blue cross of St. Andrew on a white field,with the Royal Lion mounted thereon. The flag was originally authorized by Charles I in 1625. In 1929, on petition of Nova Scotia, a Royal Warrant of King George V was issued, revoking the modern Arms and ordering that the original Arms granted by King Charles I be borne upon shields, banners and otherwise according to the laws of Arms. Since that time, the Nova Scotia Flag has been in continual use.

PRINCE EDWARD ISLAND FLAG

The official flag of the Province of Prince Edward Island was authorized by an Act of the Legislative Assembly (Chapter II, Laws of Prince Edward Island, 1964). The design of the flag is based on the Armorial Bearings of the Province granted by Royal Warrant on May 30, 1905. The design of the Flag is that part of the Arms contained within the Shield, but is of rectangular shape, with a fringe of alternating red and white. The Chief and charge of the Arms occupies the upper one-third of the flag, and the remainder of the Arms occupies the lower two-thirds. The proportions of the flag are six, four, and one-quarter in relation to the fly, the hoist, and the depth of the fringe. The Flag was flown for the first time at 9 a.m., September 1st, 1964 on the anniversary of the 1864 Charlottetown Conference.

PROVINCE OF ONTARIO FLAG

The flag of the Province of Ontario was adopted under the Flag Act of May 21, 1965. Approved by Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth II, the flag design was prepared by the Garter King of Arms in accordance with heraldic laws and practice. The flag incorporates parts of the Royal Armorial Ensigns, namely the Union and Red Ensign; the badge in the fly of the flag is the shield of the Armorial Bearings of the Province of Ontario granted by Royal Warrant on the 26th day of May, 1868.

The flag is of the proportions two by length and one by width, with the Union Jack occupying the upper quarter next the staff and the shield of the armorial bearings of the province centred in the half farthest from the staff.

PROVINCE OF QUEBEC FLAG

The official flag of the Province of Quebec was adopted by a Provincial Order-in-Council No. 72 on January 1, 1948. The flag thus adopted is generally known as the "fleurdelisé" flag. It is a white cross on a sky blue ground, with the fleur-de-lis in an upright position on the blue ground in each of the four corners of the flag.

SASKATCHEWAN JUBILEE-CENTENNIAL FLAG

Selected from entries received in open competition, the flag is to be used for Saskatchewan's sixtieth anniversary celebrations in 1965 and for the Centennial of Canadian Confederation in 1967.

The approved design consists of a yellow stem of wheat on the left and the provincial Coat of Arms in the upper right corner on a field of green and red. Golden yellow is the symbol of ripening wheat fields, green represents luxuriant vegetation, and red suggests the fires which swept the Prairies in early days before cultivation.

BRITISH COLUMBIA FLAG

Certain Armorial Ensigns were recorded in the College of Arms on March 31st. 1906, and registered on May 3rd 1906. "Three silver and blue wavy bars from the bottom of which a shining half sun in natural colours, under the Union Jack bearing in the centre a golden antique crown"

During a visit to England in 1960 the Hon. W. A. C. Bennett located the original design of the flag at the College of Arms in London. The display of this flag was authorized by Order in Council dated June 20th, 1960.
